Noguchi, Brave Fighter
Buy It, Keep It, Get Rich
John D.'s Apt Question
Midnight Candidates

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE death of Dr. Noguchi, a courageous Japanese scientist, is a great loss to the world.

Backed by the Rockefeller Institute, Noguchi was a leader in the war against disease, and poverty and misery born of disease.

Yellow fever killed him at last, as he sought for more knowledge in the African yellow fever regions.

Some bronze bandit on horseback should give his high place to Noguchi, whose memory really deserves honor.

WHEN the steamer Columbus landed at Bremerhafen on Monday, eight passengers got into a flying machine and landed in Berlin seven hours ahead of the fast train. And all those passengers in a hurry were American business men. Americans will fly if you give them the opportunity.

BUY the right thing in America, keep it and you grow rich.

For instance, $6,000 invested in National City Bank stock 20 years ago is worth $27,000 now. And that is a comparatively small increase.

FIFTY dollars invested in General Motors during the war, when Otto H. Kahn advised friends to buy it, is worth $5,000 now.

All depends on management: that is to say, on MEN. Investment in a good man and a good organization is the surest.

INCREASING prosperity increases the number of American investors. In 5 years they have grown more than 300 per cent. Fifteen million Americans bought securities in 1927. Fifteen years ago only 900,000 Americans bought securities.

ARE you investing money in "investment trusts?" If so, do you know the people that invest your money?

John D. Rockefeller, long ago, was asked to buy stock in a certain company because "the so-and-so railroad is going to guarantee dividends for 99 years."

"But suppose it fails to tell you," asked Mr. Rockefeller, "who was going to guarantee that railroad?"

WALL Street, unhappy yesterday, decides that the four-hour day, ending at 2 p. m., is a mistake.

That "2 p. m." in New York is 11 a. m. on the Pacific Coast, too early for business to get well started.

DR. MAX MASON, leaving the University of Chicago presidency to join the Rockefeller Foundation, foresees in years to come "a world free of hunger, poverty and illness, peopled by men understanding the workings of their own minds." Mr. Mason says: "We may even colonize other planets some day."

These planets are "colonized" now, undoubtedly many of them, let us hope, looking in pity upon this poor, sick planet with its plagues, wars and cheating.

SIX hundred million dollars in the Rockefeller Foundation will help Dr. Mason to answer the questions: "What makes men unhappy?" "Why should men go hungry?" etc.

An answer that doesn't cost anything is this:

Men are unhappy and hungry because they are ignorant, and because powerful men use their brains to collect wealth that they don't need instead of helping those that need help.

TWO hundred more may die in Hamburg, killed by deadly phosgene war gas accidentally released.

Americans should realize that a country not protected against airplanes that would drop such gas on cities is a foolish country.

It is particularly foolish when, as in our case, it is the richest nation in the world; doubly and trebly foolish when it buys useless battleships, spending on one battleship enough money to build a complete air fleet.

BUSINESS men in Europe are outraged by high interest rates paid on American loans and the big "rake-off" of American financiers handling the loans.

The worst is that when the time comes to repudiate some of those foreign bonds they will be in the hands of those American investors far from the thrills of the "rake-off" gentlemen.

PLAN OF ACTION NOT DECIDED AT CONFERENCE

Marion County Officials Hold Meeting with Attorney General's Aides

TANGLES DEVELOP

Right of Commissioners To Declare Recordership Vacant Is Questioned

Attorney General Edward C. Turner will give a formal ruling in a few days relative to the question of whether a vacancy exists in the office of recorder of Marion County.

This announcement was made at Columbus today following a conference there between Attorneys Grant E. Mouser, Jr., and C. S. Younger, assistants to the attorney general, Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann, Marion, and O. W. Kinamon, W. M. King and Oscar J. Hord, members of the Board of Commissioners of Marion County.

The informal conference, it was stated, considered the situation existing as a result of the unexplained absence of Charles E. Smith, Marion County recorder.

The report covering the investigation now being made in the county recorder's office by state examiners will not be made public for several days at least, if was stated today at the offices of the state bureau of supervision and inspection of public offices in Columbus.

Authority in Doubt

After studying laws and court decisions bearing upon this situation, officials in the attorney general's office this afternoon expressed belief that the Marion County Board of Commissioners is without power to fill a vacancy, if one legally exists, in the office of recorder.

One court decision was found where it was held that an office was vacant where the missing official had been absent 17 months. It was seriously doubted by state officials whether Recorder Smith has been missing long enough for the office to be declared vacant, from a legal viewpoint.

It was pointed out that Ohio laws

MAY START BUSES PRIOR TO OCT. 5

Plans of Maag Brothers Co. Outlined in Statement Today

Whether or not the new bus service authorized here to replace city street cars will be placed in operation before expiration of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. street railway franchise on Oct. 5, will depend upon when the repaving and widening of W. Center-st is completed and upon the length of time it will take to secure bus equipment, Ray Maag, of the Maag Brothers Transit Co. stated this morning.

"If W. Center-st is completed by the time we have secured our equipment and there is no objection on the part of the city, we will in all probability start the service before the expiration of the C., D. & M. franchise," Maag said. "From what I have heard, I do not believe there would be any objection on the part of the C., D. & M."

The Maag Brothers Co. was awarded the contract for city bus lines to replace the city street cars by City Council at a called meeting Monday night. The ordinance franchise provides for a fleet of buses of 21-passenger capacity representing an investment of between $75,000 and $80,000.

Will Chooses to Run as Candidate of Bunkless Party; Doesn't Need Partner

Says He Can Do Vice President's Work and Save Salary

NEW YORK, May 23—Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist, has chosen to run for the presidency. He will make the race as the candidate of a "bunkless" party, it was announced today.

If elected he would be the first president in 62 years who was funny intentionally, his backers assert. They admit he is qualified for the high office and Will himself does not deny it.

Rogers' friends point with pride to the fact that he is a veteran of 13 campaigns with the Ziegfeld Follies, which is something that can't be said for other candidates. They view with alarm the rising cost of government and assert that, if elected, the genial Rogers will save the country money. For one thing he declines to have a running mate on the theory that the office of vice president is an expensive superfluity whatever that is.

Friends Point to His 14 Campaigns with Ziegfeld Follies

"If elected," said Rogers, clearing his throat, "I'll do the work of both president and vice president for one salary, thereby saving the government the vice presidential salary of $15,000 a year.

"Fifteen thousand lwrries is not to be scoffed at, even by United States Government.

Fourteen well-known Americans, including Henry Ford, Nicholas Murray Butler, Gen. William Mitchell, Judge Ben B. Lindsey and William Allen White, are acting as backers and indorsers of Rogers' candidacy, according to Life, the humorous weekly which today announced the tossing of Will's sombrero into the political arena. Will himself, it was stated, will make a formal speech of acceptance next week.

"LINDY" HEADS BIG AIR LINE

Joins Transcontinental Train-Plane Concern as Technical Chairman

New York, May 23—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gave new and practical impetus to the development of aviation in the United States by accepting a position as technical head of the newly-formed Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., a $5,000,000 corporation which will establish a coast-to-coast train and plane service, cutting the traveling time from New York to Los Angeles to 48 hours, or exactly in half.

"Lindy's" title is "chairman of the technical committee." His salary has not been announced, although it is said to be extremely liberal. It is believed, too, that he has been given a generous block of stock. He will devote all his time to the new job.

All matters concerning choice of equipment, fields, general service, flying routes and safety appliances will come under the authority of the committee of which Lindbergh is the head. The president of the company is C. M. Keys, who is also president of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation.

Interest Is High

The railroads identified with "Lindy's" new company are the Pennsylvania and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe. The two airplane companies involved are the Curtiss Co. and the Wright Aeronautical Corporation.

Public interest in the new air-mail corporation, formation of which was announced a week ago, is reported to be great. The route to be followed is: By train from New York to Columbus, Ohio; by plane from Columbus to Wichita, Kan.; thence over the Atchison by train to some station yet to be selected in New Mexico and then by plane again to Los Angeles.

The route was selected upon the

ITALIANS TAKE OFF ON NORTH POLE TRIP

Second Flight of Italia Starts Under Conditions Not Perfect

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, May 23—Bound for the North Pole on its second venture over the uncharted wastes of the frozen Arctic, the dirigible Italia left its base here at 4:40 a. m. today.

Although weather conditions were not perfect, Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the ship, felt that they were sufficiently favorable to allow him to start.

As the huge silver-sheened craft nosed its way upward through a murky haze, the crew of the supply ship Citta Di Milano, and natives who had come miles to watch the dirigible's departure, cheered enthusiastically and wished the intrepid air-voyagers godspeed.

Before starting, General Nobile announced that he first planned to [illegible] to the top of [illegible] Pole.

BOMB HOME

District Attorney Escapes Injuries When Residence Is Wrecked

Kenosha, Wis., May 23—The home of Lewis W. Powell, district attorney of Kenosha County, was in partial ruins today following the explosion of a powerful bomb which endangered the lives of the prosecutor and his family.

A hole large enough to drive an automobile through was blown in one side of the house. All windows were shattered. China and other breakables in the home were smashed.

The blast occurred last night shortly after Attorney Powell and his four children had retired. They were hurled from their beds, but escaped serious injury. Mrs. Powell was attending a lodge meeting at the time.

MARINE BILL SIGNED BY COOLIDGE TODAY

Measure Authorizes Extensive Replacements of Government-Owned Vessels

Washington, May 23 — President Coolidge today signed the Jones-White merchant marine bill.

This measure authorizes extensive replacements of government vessels, increases the construction loan fund from $125,000,000 to $250,000,000, reaffirms the general shipping policy of the 1921 act, liberalizes ocean mail contracts, and makes all merchant marine personnel eligible for the naval reserve and two month's reserve pay without actual service.

Special Train Run to Coal Field Where Giant Marion Excavators Are Running

The manner in which Marion-made products have revolutionized open pit, or strip, coal mining was witnessed yesterday by 1,200 persons when the Marion Steam Shovel Co. together with the Northern Illinois Coal Corporation sponsored a tour of inspection to the open pit mine of the latter company.

A special Chicago & Alton train carried the party from Chicago to the mine, which is located near Wilmington, Ill. Included in the party were coal operators, contractors, railroad officials, bankers, large buyers of coal and eight officials of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Officials of the local concern making the trip were D. J. Shelton, vice president and director of sales, J. L. Crissinger, secretary, Harvey T. Gracely, sales manager, C. M. Howser, district manager, J. K. Holmes, chief engineer, George Cheney, assistant sales manager, L. C. Mosley, sales promotion manager and Edward Huber, assistant to the treasurer.

See Giant Shovel:

The visit was made to the mine to see two of the largest shovels ever built in operation. The shovels, part of the equipment of the mine, were built here by the Marion Steam Shovel Co., and have been in operation for practically three months. A third shovel of the same type is now being assembled at the mine and a fourth is in the process of construction at the plant here. It is expected that it will be in operation by September.

When all four shovels are in operation they will handle 1,200,000 cubic yards of earth every month. In the

ANNUAL BANQUET HONORS STUDENTS

Galion Juniors Are Hosts to Seniors at Dance in School Gym

Galion, May 23—The gymnasium of Galion High School was the scene of gay activity last night when members of the class of 1928 were honor guests at the final social event of their school career the annual banquet and dance at which members of the Junior class were hosts. The decorative scheme carried out in the class colors of green and white effectively represented a beach by moonlight. Verandas with wide pillars and gay awnings all followed the theme and beach furniture was used exclusively for the lounges. At one end of the gymnasium a giant ship, "The Spirit of '28" was anchored and the ship motif was used in favors and in the baskets of flowers.

William McFarquhar president of Senior Class and Miss Isabel Montor, Junior class president of the Junior Class and Miss Margaret Trecut, and the grand march which began the activities. Sixteen boys of the sophomore class attired as sailors acted as waiters and served the four-course dinner prepared by members of the Dorcas society of the First Reformed Church.

C. D. Molder of the faculty presided as toastmaster at the session of after dinner speeches and tellingly introduced the representatives of the various groups present. Stentz S. Motsinger of the Board of Education gave the opening toast "All Aboard." Robert Schupp gave the welcome and wished the graduates success in his toast, "Bon Voyage." V. H. Oberlander represented the faculty with "Knots" and William McFarquhar leader of the graduates closed with "Adois."

Present Program

A program given by the Juniors in the auditorium followed. Kathryn Peebles played an organ number, Florence Moser and Flora Mae McKelvey sang a duet; a trio, organ, piano and violin was given by Miss Peebles, Eugene DeSilets and Charles Lane. Herbert Bolley and Charles Thayer played a group of numbers and Margaret Trecut read an original poem "Seniors." The production of a one act play "The Trysting Place" by Booth Tarkington closed the program. Vaughn Volk, Hazel Nichols, Helen Laughbaum, Margaret Trecut, Robert Zinn, Ralph Cornell and Charles Lane comprised the cast for the clever comedy.

Music for the dance which followed was furnished by the Bluebirds, of Bellefontaine. The dainty programs which were given as favors were in the appropriate colors and bore the class seal and the ship design.

Vivian Rigby was chairman of the decorating committee for the affair; Evelyn Rensch headed the menu committee; Eugene Desilets, the program; Marjorie Johnson, favor; James Auckerman, orchestra and Hazel Nichols invitation. Miss Mary Mather class sponsor supervised the management committee for the prom.

COUNCIL PLANNING SIDEWALK WORK

General Inspection To Precede Improvements at Mt. Gilead

Mt. Gilead, May 23—By motion, city council Monday night authorized the chairman of the sidewalk committee to hire a man to inspect local walks and report defects. This information will be used in the proposed resolution asking the landowners to repair or lay walks. In the event that the landowners fail to comply with this request, the repairing will be done by the council and the owners forced to pay for the work.

Street Commissioner B. A. Bending was authorized to repair any bad situations in sewer in Rich and Center-sts. The sewers are needed in several places and many complaints have been made to council members.

The sewer committee and the Street Commissioner B. A. Bending were authorized to inspect, with power to act, a condition on E. High-st where it has been thought necessary to make connection with sewers to residences. Many compliments have been made about the situation.

The council moved to grant Dr. C. S. Jackson, whose residence and office are situated on E. High-st near the M. E. Church a "no parking" section to accommodate his car at all times, in front of his office.

GIVE RECITAL

Voice Students Are Heard in Talented Program Last Night

Galion, May 23—A group of talented members of the voice classes of Miss Donabl Townsend gave a private informal recital at her home, Harding Way E. last night. Each of the eight participating members sang a group of four songs with Mrs. Townsend accompanying. Various types of songs were used with an interesting discussion of each type following the rendition. Mrs. Townsend closed the program by singing two numbers, "Ave Maria," from Cavalleria Rusticana and "On That Sweet April Morning." She was assisted at the piano by Mrs. R. O. Morgan.

Those taking part in the affair were Mrs. Hazel Curfman Schreck, Hazel Garverick, Lillian Weber, LaDonna Heiby, Harriet Wisterman, sopranos, and Dorothy Auld and Norma Durtchi, contraltos. Plans are being made for the formal recital scheduled for early summer at which time Mrs. Townsend will present the same members of her class publicly.

Election Frauds, Murders and Terrorisms in Cook County Up for Inquiry

Chicago, May 23—With $150,000 appropriated for the investigation of political crimes and election frauds in Cook County, the way was clear today for the assembling of evidence for the special grand jury.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, appointed special prosecutor, announced that by June 4, when the jury is impaneled, many witnesses to political criminal inquiry will have been rounded up and ready to testify.

The lump sum for expenses of the investigation was appropriated late yesterday by the county board without a single dissenting vote. The resolution was passed by the board, read in full.

Upon the petition of the Chicago Bar Association, the chief justice of the Criminal Court has directed that a special grand jury be impaneled for the purpose of investigation into election frauds, murders and terrorisms in Cook County.

IMPROVEMENTS IN CONVENTION RADIO

Complicated Communication System Perfected To Assure Good Broadcasting

Chicago, May 23—While Republican and Democratic forces are lining up for a finish fight at Houston and Kansas City, at the national conventions, a complicated communication system is being perfected to assure adequate connections.

Phone installations have been authorized "from the rock ribbed coast of Maine to the sun kissed stretches of California," according to officials of the Western Electric Company.

Telephone and radio manufacturing experts here are rushing to completion plans which will make the conventions the most widely broadcast in history.

Special Hook-Ups

From Washington, urgent requests that a flood of special "hook-ups" be completed as soon as possible are coming from prominent political candidates, according to Western Electric officials.

Four main phone and carrier systems are being constructed from Kansas City. One involves a special series of carrier current lines to St. Louis; another special link with Minneapolis, a third a new wired "hookup" between Denver and Salt Lake City, and a fourth an installation terminating at Oakland, on the shores of the Pacific.

All sections of the country demand close connections by wire with the conventions. Politicians who do not attend the conventions will sit in their homes and offices and "pull the strings" over special lines to Kansas City and Houston.

Plans of publicity experts of the two conventions will be reflected in added telephone, telegraph and radio facilities running to ninety of America's leading cities.

Three prominent centers will be used as focal points for distributing convention gossip to smaller towns and villages in their vicinity.

Radio's Part

Radio is expected to play an important part in the 1928 convention. Broadcasting already have been mapped out, and preparations are under way.

Most of the equipment for broadcasting is being made now in Chicago. Floods of radio orders coming in here at the Western Electric plants since January give evidence of the magnitude of plans to inform the country of every move being made on the floor of the conventions.

Every possible ballot marker, apparently, will listen in to some part of the hullabaloo, which goes with selecting a presidential candidate.

For the convention floor, special loud speakers are being constructed to permit orators and chairmen to drown out the roars of hecklers and the chatter of delegates.

Columbus, May 23—Bucyrus and Carey youths were among the Northwest Ohio District winners of free scholarships given by the College of Agriculture of Ohio State University, last week.

The youths who were awarded the scholarships were: Oscar Leuthold, Bucyrus, and Charles Spitler, of Carey.

The scholarships, which were given to members of senior classes of Ohio High Schools, making the highest grade averages in an examination conducted by the College of Agriculture, are valued at $240 each. They are to be used in any four of the next six years, beginning next September 1, and are good for any course in the College of Agriculture at Ohio State. They were awarded to stimulate greater interest in agricultural education in high school students of the state.

Twenty scholarships were awarded, five in each of the four districts of Ohio.

Another Ohio Man Is Benefited By This New Kenjola

Relieved of All Stomach Misery and Terrible Backaches, He States

MR. WM. A. GERBE

"Kenjola has ended every form of suffering I had and restored me to glorious health," said Mr. Wm. A. Gerbe, Mingo Junction, Ohio.

"My stomach and kidneys were badly disordered. I suffered miseries with pains in my back. My stomach was so unhealthy that everything I ate caused suffering. A hot, bitter liquid would rise in my mouth after meals and I would bloat so with gas that it was hard for me to breathe. I had to rise several times a night due to weak kidneys and my back was always sore and stiff. My whole system was completely rundown and I never could find a medicine to help me.

"I heard so much about Kenjola that I decided to try it. A change came over my system the first week. I began to eat heartily and the bloating and gas spells disappeared. I never belch up that liquid any more and my kidneys are so much stronger I can sleep through the entire night without rising once. Besides this relief the pains in my back are gone and I actually feel one hundred percent better and I owe it all to Kenjola."

Kenjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from mineral plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Kenjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this component. From a vast numbers of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new method product and now Kenjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Kenjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Strong & Sharp Pharmacy, and is also being sold by the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.

Presbyterian No. 1	0	3	.000

By KARL R. M'ELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

The defeat of Epworth Seniors last night in the third round of Sunday School League No. 1 gave the victorious St. Mary's aggregation a clear title to first place in the standings for at least another week.

Epworth Seniors and St. Mary's have been fighting it out since the season opened and last night the former team was dropped by the Christians, 6 to 3. Errors contributed mainly to the defeat of the former league leaders.

Presbyterians No. 1 gave the league leaders a real scare when they bunched their hits in the sixth inning to put across three scores. The St. Mary's team scored in the first and third frames to bring home a 4 to 3 win.

After defeating Calvary and Trinity in previous games, the Irish are being looked upon as the outstanding team of the league. Of course with but three games played most anything can happen before the season ends.

Calvary made it two straight last night when they defeated Trinity, last year's champions of League No. 2, 7 to 1. Hitting of Jerry Neimeyer featured the play of Calvary. He smashed out a double, triple and a home run in four times up.

After suffering their first defeat at the hands of the Saints in the first game of the season the Calvary team has been playing heads up ball and will give the league leaders plenty to think about before the last game is played.

Epworth managed to pull out of the cellar in defeating Wesley, 10 to 1. Presbyterian No. 1 is holding the low place down with a perfect record of three straight defeats.

The scores:

Epworth	003 023 2	—10
Wesley	000 001 0	— 1

Batteries: Snyder and Adams; Corwin and Trowbridge, Smith.

Epworth Sen.	010 200 0	—3
Christians	203 010 0	—6

Batteries: Rice and Willoughby; Rank and McClintock.

Presbyterians	000 030 0	—3
St. Mary's	202 000 2	—4

Batteries: Verberg, Walber and Koeppen; Frenden and Andrews.

Trinity	000 010 0	—1
Calvary	400 101 1	—7

Batteries: Jones and Morgan; Gruber and Young.

Sammy Mandell Fights Self Out of Work By Giving M'Larnin Perfect Beating

Loser Faces Chance To Make Fortune This Summer

Successful Champion Will Get Chance To Rest for Balance of Year

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 23—They say that nothing succeeds like success but an epigram like that is good only as long as the inevitable exception and the old-oaken, moss-covered, the iron-bound minority report are out somewhere playing with their split infinitives.

Having eased that burden off my troubled conscience, we now will hasten to consider the sad story of Samuel Mandell, the lightweight champion. Samuel may be said to have been mortally successful in defending his championship title on Monday night. And does that mean he is to prosper in proportion to the success of his undertaking? Yes, indeed; it does not.

Too Successful

Mandell was so all-fired successful the other night that it looks as though he might have the rest of the summer quite to himself. He apparently fought himself right out of work.

Now, children, let us pass along to the next picture. What do you see? That's right, Constance; you see a man. Is the man big? No, the man is little. Was the little man successful on Monday night? No, the little man was very unsuccessful. Is the little man winking at you? No, the little man closed his eye by mistake on Monday night and now he can't open it. Would the little man wink if he could? Undoubtedly, Hasenpfeffer. If the little man doesn't feel like winking today, he ought to have the other eye closed for him.

Jimmy In Good

But James McLarnin, the unsuccessful candidate at Monday's lightweight election, has a sense of humor and so he will wink almost involuntarily as he considers the fact that they are busy at this moment trying to match him into plenty of money. Our Mr. Rickard is not taking the winner of Monday's championship and sending him along after bigger and better purses. He is placing the loser in that spot, the idea being that Mandell simply was too successful to bother with from now on.

"I have nothing in mind for Mandell," said our Mr. Rickard today, "but I figure on dropping McLarnin in with a lightweight or two during the outdoor season. I'd like to bring him back with Sid Terris."

Waiting on Another Bout

Although he didn't say as much, it is believed that our Mr. Rickard will wait to get the winner of the Terris-Bruce Flowers fight and then sign him to a McClarnin contract. Then, according to the tentative program outlined, McLarnin, provided he gets by the Terris-Flowers winner, will be dropped in with Billy Wallace for a late summer attraction.

Meanwhile, where does Mandell come in? It seems that he doesn't. He fought a perfect fight; in fact, he made only one mistake all night but that one settled it. He was so ill advised as to prove that he was too downright good.

SPEEDWAY RACE TO BE BROADCAST BY 35 CHAIN STATIONS

Graham McNamee Will Take Over Microphone at 2 O'Clock May 30

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23—With Graham McNamee at the microphone, the International 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, will be broadcast by National Broadcasting Company over a national network extending from coast to coast.

It is the first time in history the historic race classic will be announced over a national network, comprising more than thirty-five stations over the combined NBC Red and Pacific networks.

McNamee will come on the air, beginning the last hour of the race which begins promptly at 10 a. m. Central Standard time. With the race running at least 100 miles an hour McNamee's voice will be first heard shortly after 2 o'clock the afternoon of central standard time. McNamee will devote a few moments to detailing the position of the leaders and the important factors in the opening hours of the racing contest. He will then detail the lap by lap story of the waning race and announce in his inimitable, graphic manner the scene as the winner thunders down the home stretch in a sensational finish which brings fame and fortune to one of the drivers who start the world famous speed event.

The J. Warren Watson Co. is the sponsor of the broadcast, offering it to radio fans as a tribute to the automobile racing drivers for their part in the progress in the advancement of automotive trasportation. It is estimated by engineers that the speedway is responsible for seventy-five percent of the refinements in motor cars, the pioneering being done in the world's greatest laboratory, the two-and-one-half mile track at Indianapolis.

McNamee who won fame with the sporting fans as the broadcaster of the heavyweight fights and other important sporting events will have a vantage point in the top of the press pagoda at the start and finish line of the Indianapolis track. From this point he will be able to see every bit of action on the track and a corps of assistants will be in the pits, where tire changes and other trackside services performed during the race, and at other important points around the track.

He will arrive in Indianapolis several days before the contest and will live at the track with the drivers while they are making final preparations for the big race.

Lid Quickly Clamped Down on Sharkey-Delaney Mess

BY FRANK G. MENKE

HAVE you noticed how quickly the lid was placed over the Sharkey-Delaney mess in New York?

This silence act may be explained as being "for the best interests of the game." Which, in plain every-day Anglo-Saxon, means that the conclusion was reached that it would be dangerous for the future of the racket to let all the details escape.

Nothing that has happened in boxing around New York for years has created such a rumble, grumble and deluge of conflicting, nauseating rumors as that "fight." Every circumstance connected with it seems, on the surface, to cast censure and blame upon the so-called bosses of the racket.

One of the rules of the commission, which is usually enforced, compels a boxer, training for a battle in New York, to do his last week of training in that state. In spite of that rule, the commission calmly permitted Delaney to train, or go through the training motions, in Connecticut. The commission ought to put itself on trial for the fracture of its own rules—permitting Delaney to do what the rules say cannot be done.

But Little Training

There are numbers of stories going about that Delaney's training at Bridgeport consisted mainly of the daily shave, the weekly haircut, gymnasium motions, and a little golf. They declare that his training for this battle was practically nil.

Delaney climbed into the ring at Madison Square Garden looking unlike a man ready for a fight. When the gong summoned him for action he still sat in his chair, in something of a daze. What was the matter with him? No one seems to know. All the boxing writers in the city commented on Delaney's unusual appearance.

How come, asked the fans, that Delaney, who hasn't really been put on the floor by any opponent in six years—Delaney, the crafty, clever boxer, who has fought the hardest hitters without toppling—was knocked out in one minute and 16 seconds by a man notorious for his light hitting.

Bet on Sharkey

And furthermore, how can the fact that gamblers were offering 5 to 1 that Delaney would be knocked out be explained? The betting should,—if based on past performances, really have been 5 to 1 that he wouldn't be knocked out. Boxing fans know that usually when gamblers are willing to make what seems to be an insane bet they have definite information—or think they have.

Delaney bitterly assails those responsible for the wild rumors about the fight. He calls attention to his past record, and points out to his weight for the Sharkey fight to prove that he was in condition. Nevertheless when Jack clambered through the ropes he looked sick, weak and in no shape to battle.

And here's another angle.

Signed up For Match

Since the fight it has been discovered that on April 5—long before Sharkey and Delaney had their session—Rickard signed up Delaney to fight Tommy Loughran, for the light-heavyweight title; signed him up before Delaney was eliminated as a heavyweight.

Did Rickard figure that Delaney would lose to Sharkey? If he didn't figure that way he didn't make a smart move in signing Jack to meet Loughran for the light-heavy title. And at a time when Delaney had a chance of being an outstanding heavyweight, whose value as such would have been destroyed by a loss to Loughran.

When the Sharkey-Delaney fiasco was over, Jimmy Johnston, part manager of Sharkey, declared that he had a "tip" that Delaney wasn't training. And while Jimmy was yowling about that, the Commission was bleating that the fight would be "investigated to the limit."

After which Johnston denied that he said anything of the sort. And then came word from the commission that there would be no searching investigation—and there wasn't. And so the lid was clamped on the entire affair.

Since which time those customers who always felt that the commission would protect it from any "phoney stuff" are asking sarcastically:

"What do you mean protection—and who do you mean?"

ZBYSZKO IS SHOWING MUCH OF OLD FORM

Veteran Wrestler Wins Over German; Seeking To Regain Old Title

New York, May 23—Wladek Zbyszko is showing much of his former skill in his campaign to regain the world's wrestling championship. The veteran Pole tossed Cyclone Ress, of Germany, in 33 minutes here last night.

Jim London, Greek adonis, drew with Renato Gardini, Italian, champion, in a one-hour match. Ray Steele, of the University of California, won the decision over Henri Deglane, French champion, in a 30-minute bout.

Sailor William Bullock, U. S. navy middleweight champion, threw Charley West of Cleveland in 18 minutes and 30 seconds. George Hagen, former U. S. Navy champion, pinned Tom Lurich's shoulders to the mat in only 12 seconds.

Hack Wilson Clouts Ninth Home Run; Ruth Has 13

NEW YORK, May 23—Babe Ruth's outstanding rival for home run honors today is a National Leaguer—Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs. While the bambino was getting his thirteenth against the Red Sox yesterday, Hack clouted No. 9. Lou Gehrig, pacesetter for Ruth last season, hit his seventh homer of the current campaign.

Ruth is now eight games ahead of his record-smashing pace of last year.

ANNUAL MARION AND BUCYRUS RELAY OFF; NO INTEREST SHOWN

Opponents of Local Team Fail in Effort To Get Runners Together

Failure of the student body at Bucyrus to take interest in the annual Marion-Bucyrus Relay has led the event being called off, it was announced today by F. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. here.

The relay was not called off until last night when it was officially learned that the Bucyrus team would be unable to compete. A band contest in which Bucyrus will take part was one of the leading reasons for the city's failure to get a team together.

The meet was to have been held Saturday with entrants starting at Bucyrus. All arrangements had been completed in Marion for the race with 25 trackmen working out daily under Coaches Bohyer and Compton of Harding High School.

Entrance Fees to Olympic Games Have Wide Range

Amsterdam, May 23—Entrance fees to the Olympic Games will range from 30 cents to $2.40. The games will be officially opened on July 28 although contests are already in progress. Hockey began last week and will continue three more days.

Standing room on weekdays for track and field events in the Olympic stadium will cost 30 cents; on Sundays, 40 cents. Seats in one of the covered tribunes can be had for $1.60 each on weekdays; on Sundays, $2.40. Prices are slightly lower if the spectator buys a subscription ticket for the entire series of track and field sports.

Seats in the boxing pavilion range in price from $1 to $2.40 each, depending upon whether they are for morning, afternoon or evening.

Collins Stars

Connie Mack shook the moth balls out of Eddie Collins' uniform and sent the veteran to second base in the Washington game. All Eddie had was to drive in the tying and winning runs in his two times at bat. Al Simmons, recovering from rheumatism, finally got into the game as a pinch hitter and smacked a far from rheumatic triple. The A's won in the eleventh, 7 to 6, bringing to life the ancient wheeze about Washington being first in war, first in peace and last in the American league.

Johnny Mostil personally conducted the White Sox to a 4 to 3 win over Cleveland. He got three hits, scored all the way from second on a wild pitch by George Uhle, and made eleven putouts and one assist in the field, equalling the world's record for center fielders.

Heilmann's home featured Detroit's 6 to 3 victory over the Browns.

What the RED OK TAG means to you

During the last few months the popularity of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet in this community has reached spectacular proportions. As a consequence, we have taken in a large number of good used cars. Many of these cars have been thoroughly inspected and reconditioned where necessary. To protect the buyer the red "O. K. that counts" tag has been attached to the radiator cap of these OK'd cars. Look for this tag and KNOW that you are getting honest value!

KENTON POLICE SEEK BAD CHECK WORKER

Merchants of City Report Losses Totaling More Than $50

Kenton, May 23—Officials are today endeavoring to trace the man who recently passed bogus checks totaling more than $50 on at least five Kenton merchants.

The checks, drawn on a Kenton bank, were made out by an E. S. Moore to a "Boy King." Appearing in the different stores, King endorsed and presented the checks in payment for merchandise and then received the change in money and disappeared.

The checks ranged from $9 to $16. The bogus check passer is believed to be the same one who "fleeced" merchants here several months ago.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES 67

Largest Class in History of Upper Sandusky Institution Receive Diplomas

Upper Sandusky, May 23 — High school days for a class of 67 students came to a close last night with the presentation of diplomas at the annual commencement exercises of the Upper Sandusky High School. The closing events were held at the senior high school auditorium which was arrayed with streamers of the class colors, blue and gold, baskets of spring flowers and the class flower, the rose. Before the entrance of the class, the high school orchestra, under the direction of T. R. Evans, musical director for the schools, played several numbers.

With the parting of the stage curtains, the class, the largest ever to graduate in the history of the school stood revealed. Pastel shades of the girl's dresses combined with artistic lighting effects made the scene one of beauty and color. Seated with the graduates were Principal L. H. Houpt, Supt. W. O Moore, Dan Reynolds, president of the Board of Education and Mrs. Paul Ayers, who presented the D. A. R. award.

Rev. W. H. Kibler, pastor of the English Lutheran Church gave the invocation. Glenn Lowell Larick, salutatorian for the 1928 class, in a few words, pointed out the tremendous scope of public education and its extension to all classes. He closed by extending a hearty welcome to all present to enjoy with the graduates, their final school appearance. Richard Kneisley, president of the senior body, spoke next, basing his remarks on the great tasks of the age, the greatest of which he pointed out as being the problem of how to acquire faith in ourselves. Freda Marie Steiner, valedictorian of her class, spoke on, "Youth, the Citizen of Tomorrow" and related how the youth is trained for future responsibilities. Well developed poise and public speaking ability was shown by each speaker.

Receives Awards

Prin. L. H. Houpt announced that in the absence of Dr. Rees Tulloss, president of Wittenberg College, and principal speaker of the occasion, Supt. W. O Moore would address the graduates. Supt. Moore, speaking for the benefit of the public school system chose as a text, "Let Us Reason Together" The public makes a demand on the public school to meet a public need and we have in the past continued as an institution for the betterment of society—we ask you, then to back it up with time, energy and money to make it a success," said the speaker in closing.

Mr. Reynolds presented the diplomas and the annual awards given by Hon. Charles H. Lewis, of Harpster. Miss Steiner, the highest standing for four years received $50 in gold, and Glenn Larick and Ruth Tilton, tying for second place, each were presented $25. Mrs. Ayers then presented Glenn Larick, the student with the highest average in History with $2.50 in gold from the local chapter of the D. A. R.

A trumpet solo, "The End of a Perfect Day," effectively played by Virginia Buhl and benediction by Rev. N. W Sager closed the exercises.

Members of the 1928 class receiving diplomas were: Edward Adams, Frederick Cassel, Clarence Courtade, Frederick Cramer, William Everhart, Paul Frey, Doller Hagenmaier, Clarence Huffman, Ralph Jenot, Kenneth Kinley, Richard Kneisley, Glenn Larick, Gerald Logsdon, Edward Martin, Frederick Merrick, Joseph Miller, Frederick Grimm, Berlyn Perrish, Charles Peters, Russel Pool, Ulrich Reile, Chester Schneider, Karl Snyder, Roscoe Stophy, Don Stubbs, Raymond Thiel, Wayne Ulrich, Myron Veith, Howard Wall, Ralph Witzel, Kathryn Arts, Virginia Buhl, Iola Beidelschies, Dorothy Black, Adeline Bogard, Nina Chadwick, Pauline Courtade, Nellie Dome, Gertrude Fleck, Angela Frey, Christena Gottfried, Helen Guthrie, Helen Henry, Helen Huzzy, Blanche Justus, Lorain Kuenzli, Esther Lambrite, Opal Maulart, Evelyn Martin, Mildred Martin, Hilda Merrick, Luella Patchett, Wanda Pfeifer, Martha Quaintance, Lucile Ball, Rhea Ross, Alma Roth, Ruth Scherry, Ruth Shumaker, Majorie Slemmer, Freda Steiner, Mary Stevens, Eva Swarts, Lucile Swoigard, Ruth Tilton, Catherine Walter, Mildred Young.

MRS. ELLA SMITH CALLED TO COLUMBUS

Herbert Smith, 19, Attempts To End Life Last Night

Upper Sandusky, May 23—Mrs. Ella Smith is in Columbus, where she was called at midnight last night by a message stating that her son, Herbert, Smith, 19, was seriously ill in Capitol University Hospital. The young man had attempted to end his life by swallowing a quantity of carbolic acid, the message stated.

No reason for the act could be given by Mrs. Smith. The young man had been working in a bakery in Columbus. He recently had been suffering from eye trouble.

STUDENTS PRESENT SCHOOL ANNUAL

"Indian Village" Is Dedicated to Superintendent of Upper Sandusky High School

Upper Sandusky, May 23—The Indian Village annual, the yearly publication of the senior class made its initial appearance yesterday afternoon. Dedicated to W. O. Moore, superintendent of the public schools here, the book contains 104 pages, is handsomely bound in black leather with orange lining, the high school colors. The name and the head of an Indian appear on the front of the book in the two colors.

A photo of Harrison Smith Park, one of the prominent natural beauty spots of Upper Sandusky, holds the honor of appearing on the frontispiece. Here the football games were played. A unique idea carried out in the paneling surrounding the upper classmen's pictures is a drawing of the first school building of Upper Sandusky, opened in 1870 and the present structure erected in 1924. A large photo of the two buildings occupies a prominent space in the first pages of the book. One page is in memory of Miss Ruth Gregg, instructress in the Junior High School, whose death occurred Sept. 16, 1927.

Kathryn Arts was editor-in-chief of the 1928 annual, her corps of assistants including Fred Cassel, associate editor; Ulrich Reile, business manager; William Everhart, assistant business manager; Myron Veith, circulation manager; Ralph Witzel, treasurer; Freda Steiner, Who's Who; Ruth Scherry, history; Angela Frey, class will; Virginia Buhl, music; Alma Roth, debate; Ruth Tilton and Doller Hagenmaier, athletics; Kenneth Kinley, snapshots; Adeline Bogard, jokes; Helen Hiney, alumni; Mildred Martin, Helen Guthrie, Mary Stevens; calendar, Martha Quaintance and Roscoe Stophy, art work; Miss Erma Stearns, faculty adviser.

Sandusky-st, Delaware, after an illness of several months, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Clevenger Funeral Home, Delaware. The services were conducted by Rev. R. B. Haggens. Interment was made at Oak Grove Cemetery, Delaware.

Mr. Mooney was born in Belmont County, Ohio and spent most of his life at Delaware. He was also a former resident of Ashley.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Mooney; one son, Carl Mooney, of Columbus; one sister, Mrs. W. A. Hall, of Delaware; one brother, David E. Mooney, of Columbus.

NAMED DIRECTOR IN HIGHWAY PROJECT

Kenton, May 23—Walter T. Johnson, manufacturer, has been named as director from this city on the proposed international highway linking Canada with the South. The highway, as was announced more than a month ago, will pass through Kenton. The Kiwanis Club and the Chamber of Commerce have been assisting an existing organization in boosting the route.

READS SERVICE

Miss Edith Courtad and Andrew Beidinger Wed at Upper Sandusky

Upper Sandusky, May 23—A pretty wedding occurred at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock when Rev. Father John B. Forrer read the single ring service uniting Miss Edith Courtad of near this city, and Andrew Beidinger, of near Kirby.

For her wedding gown, the bride wore rose beige crepe while her bridesmaid, Miss Frances Beidinger, sister of the bridegroom, was gowned in Copenhagen blue flat crepe. Joseph Beidinger attended his brother as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a three-course wedding breakfast was served to the two immediate families at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Courtad, of northeast of this city. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beidinger.

After a motor trip they will reside in Mansfield where Mr. Beidinger is employed with the Mansfield Tire and Rubber Co.

Kenton Pastor Addresses Graduates at Commencement Exercises

Kenton, May 23—"Life is a battle and success comes only to those who battle every inch of the way," Rev. Herbert L. Pfister, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Church, declared in addressing the graduating class of the Grammar School at commencement exercises last night in the High School auditorium.

More than 80 students were presented with diplomas by D. B. Clark, superintendent of schools.

Continuing his address, Reverend Pfister stressed the principles of application and honesty. "Whatever your vocation, apply yourself with a determination built upon honesty."

The speaker urged the parents to give their children all the encouragement possible that they may develop "into useful citizens and be of a real service in elevating the community, state, nation and the world, to a higher plane. The world needs leaders."

Preceding the address the graduates appeared in a cleverly arranged program.

GALION WOMAN DIES

Funeral of Mrs. George Steinhelfer Will Be Held Friday

Galion, May 23—Rev. S. A. Stephan of the First Methodist Church, will be in charge of funeral services for Mrs. George Steinhelfer, 79, which will be held from the home of a son, Delbert Steinhelfer, 642 Grandst. Mrs. Steinhelfer died Sunday afternoon following a brief illness. Death was due to complications. Burial will be made in Fairview Cemetery following the services at the home.

Mrs. Steinhelfer was before her marriage, Mary Ann Holman and was born at Chambersburg, Pa. She has lived in this city for the past 40 years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. D B. Shumaker, South Africa; Mrs. Sadie Karl, Chicago, Ill.; seven sons, W. C. Steinhelfer, D. C. Steinhelfer and G. W. Steinhelfer of this city; W. H. Steinhelfer, Bellefontaine; J. C. Steinhelfer, of Chicago, and J. W. Steinhelfer, of Lima. One sister, Mrs. Lila Finical also survives.

AUTOIST GIVES MAN LIFT AND ROBS HIM

Clayton Pfeiffer, Kenton, Tells Story of Unusual Holdup

Kenton, May 23—Held at the point of a gun, Clayton Pfeiffer, Kenton, was robbed of nine dollars by a strange motorist who only a few minutes before had befriended him.

The robbery occurred at the intersection of the Harding Highway and the Ada-rd, west of here, while Pfeiffer was enroute to Lima.

Having missed the passenger bus out of this city, the Kenton man started walking in the direction of Lima. He had traveled but a short ways when a well dressed, middle-aged man drove up in a large sedan of the latest model and offered Pfeiffer a "lift." Pfeiffer accepted.

As Pfeiffer unfastened the door to leave the car and turned to thank the man who had befriended him he looked into the muzzle of a 38-calibre revolver.

After demanding and receiving Pfeiffer's wallet, he removed the contents, bid his victim a farewell and disappeared down the road. The car bore a Michigan license but Pfeiffer failed to secure the number. The man was well dressed, Pfeiffer said, and judging from his conversation was well educated.

NEVADA MAN ILL

Nevada, May 23—F. P. Blair, who was removed to the Marion City Hospital last week in the Bender-Bender invalid coach, is reported as not so well. His daughter, Mrs. Fred Ritterspach and granddaughter, Martha, of Brighton, Colo., was called here by his serious illness, arriving Friday.

ALUMNI HOLDS ANNUAL MEET

100 Attend Banquet of Mt. Gilead High School Graduates

Mt. Gilead, May 23—The annual High School Alumni banquet was held in the basement of the Presbyterian Church last night with approximately 100 in attendance, which was less than in former years. The majority of those present, with the exception of the graduating class, were older people, very few of the recent graduates being in attendance.

A chicken supper was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church Junior High and Senior High girls served the meal in rather novel fashion, marching to music, and under the direction of a drum major.

James Griffith was introduced by G. B. Robinson as toastmaster, and he in turn introduced Mr. Robinson, who gave the welcome address. The reply was given by James Thompson president of the Senior Class.

A saxophone quartet made up of girls of grade school and Junior High age gave two numbers, "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean" and "Good Night Ladies."

Dr. Edwin Gunsalus, a graduate of '78 and American consul to foreign countries since 1900, gave the principal address. His class was the first graduating class in local schools. He recalled early school day events and then gave a brief resume of his life as consul. Two teachers, Mrs Kennedy and Miss Eva Gardner, the latter now teaching here after 40 years of teaching service, were introduced as having done remarkable work for the school.

Officers for next year are: President, Leland Powell; vice president, Caroline Byrd; secretary, Florence Kline; treasurer, Charles Hickson.

Usually an official cleanup and paintup proclamation is issued by the mayor. The campaign is then actively promoted by health commissioners, street commissioners, fire marshals and other city officials, who work side by side with the Chambers of Commerce and other organizations of business men, Women's Clubs, the American Legion Posts, Rotary Clubs, Kiwanis Clubs, Lions Clubs, Junior Citizens organizations, the schools and the churches to clean and beautify their communities on the broad basis that "Good Citizenship is Good Business," and in the realization that their activities are "In the Public Service."

Dr. Weiser Urges Clean City to Promote Health

Remove all filth and rubbish and report all pools of stagnant water and other nuisances to the City Health Department, Dr. J. W. Weiser, health commissioner, urged citizens today in a statement issued in support of the cleanup campaign being conducted here this week.

Importance of the cleanup campaign as a health measure as well as for making the city a more sightly place, is emphasized by the commissioner.

In his statement Dr. Weiser says:

"Marion has planned a cleanup campaign to make it a healthier and more pleasant place in which to live. The success of the campaign depends upon the active co-operation of every citizen.

"A cleanup campaign helps to prevent sickness and fires, both of which cause many deaths each year. You may ask in what way does a cleaning-up help to prevent sickness? The removal of filth and refuse from our yards and premises destroys the breeding place of flies, one of the greatest disseminators of typhoid fever and tuberculosis germs. Therefor a cleanup campaign is a health campaign.

"How can you help? Have all rubbish removed from your cellars and backyards and placed in barrels and boxes for removal. Ventilate all damp cellars. Report all stagnant pools of water and other nuisances to the City Health Department. Do what you can to see that vacant lots are cleaned of all refuse.

"Compliance with these suggestions, and with efforts of the City Health Department, will make our city a healthy and pleasant place in which our children may grow to manhood and womanhood."

SERVICE DEPARTMENT EMPLOYES HAVE BIG PART IN CITY CLEANUP

NUMEROUS calls for the city rubbish wagons, being received by the garbage collection department at City Hall the first three days of this week, indicate a willing co-operation on the part of citizens in observance here of the annual Cleanup Week.

Contrary to the plan used with the inauguration of the Cleanup Week in Marion several years ago, no general collection is being made by the city. Instead it is being left to citizens to call for the city rubbish wagons when they have gathered together the rubbish they desire removed. Those who are in the city service are not required to pay additional for the special collection while those not in the service are charged in proportion to the amount they wish to have taken away.

When first established several years ago the plan of a general cleanup made an exceptionally busy week for the city service department. With no definite plan of collecting rubbish and ashes throughout the year at that time, spring usually found great quantities of ashes, tin cans and other rubbish piled in alleys and backyards and a general collection was necessary in order that the best results could be obtained.

With the inauguration of the present municipal garbage and rubbish collection system, however, such improvement has been brought about, and the need of a general collection in connection with Cleanup Week is not as urgent now as in former years, Service Director Benedict said today.

A half-day service is being given those who call for the city trucks during Cleanup Week. If the call is made in the morning, the wagon collects the rubbish on the afternoon trip and if the call comes in the afternoon, the rubbish is picked up the next morning.

Should the calls become more numerous an additional truck will be put on the latter part of the week, the service director said today.

SAYS BIBLE BARS BOB

Because he believes the Bible declares against bobbing, Joseph Kasser, of London, refuses to cut women's hair. He bases his belief on the verse from 1 Corinthinthians XI, "But if a woman have long hair it is a glory to her; for her hair is given her for a covering." In applying my religion to everyday life, I believe that to rob a woman of her hair is to commit a sin. I turn away as many as five women a day. Some years ago I was a women's hair dresser, but I gave it up when it was brought to my notice that it is stated in the Bible that no man shall turn a white hair black. I gave up my job because I was engaged in dyeing women's hair."

Young Bleriot is supervising the construction of a thick-winged monoplane that will be powered with four motors. The plane is being built at the Bleriot airplane factory which the father still operates.

Removal of Rubbish Needed to Lessen Fire Hazards, Chief McFarland States

WITH 90 per cent of the fires in Marion each year originating in private homes, and a large per cent due to accumulations of rubbish, much interest in the cleanup campaign being carried on here this week is being taken by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland.

Much credit for the few fires in stores and manufacturing establishments of the city is given merchants and factory heads by the fire chief in a discussion of fire prevention.

"If the same care was taken by private families in the disposition of rubbish as is taken by merchants and manufacturers there would be a marked decrease in the number of fires," the chief pointed out.

A fair comparison between fire losses in private dwellings and business places can not be arrived at by merely comparing figures, the chief said, as one fire in a business or manufacturing concern might result in many times the loss in numerous dwelling house fires, although a dwelling fire might easily be the cause of a general conflagration.

Statement by Reynolds

H. E. Reynolds, of the National Fire Prevention Association, in a recent statement said:

"Tell me what you do with your rubbish and I will tell you what sort of citizen you are. If you dispose of all your old broken, worn-out furniture, old newspapers, oily rags, worn-out clothing and rubbish of every kind, you are a good citizen, but if you allow them to accumulate you are not only a bad citizen, but a menace to your neighbors.

"Always remember that a clean house seldom burns unless a dirty house sets fire to it, and by dirty I mean a house where all kinds of silly junk is preserved. Stand in front of your clock and watch the minute hand. Every time it passes a minute mark, say to yourself: 'Another fire has broken out, somebody's home and some child is being terribly burned'—then add: 'It could have been prevented.'

"That is the way it goes minute by minute, hour by hour, all through the year. There are 1,440 minutes in the 24 hours and there are 1,500 fires daily. There will be 1,500 tomorrow and 1,500 day after, and these have not yet occurred and would not if people would be careful. If people would really take proper precautions we could save enough to build a Panama Canal each year and could save the 14,000 lives that are lost by fire each year through carelessness."

Tin Can Parade Gives Kids Big Part in Week's Events

HAVEN'T you heard every one talking about it, since the announcement in Monday's issue of The Star? There's nothing else of interest when this subject comes bobbing up.

The "Tin Can Parade" is Saturday morning and its destination is the Marion Theater!

All boys and girls who want to help in the big Cleanup Week campaign and make their city more attractive are eligible to take part. And each one who brings six tin cans—any kind will do—will be admitted free to one of the best and biggest shows in town, arranged under the direction of G. H. Foster, manager of The Marion Theater.

Don't come to the show with 15 cents and no can and expect to be admitted. It's cans that count! Six tin cans is the admission price.

The entertainment and parade sponsored by the theater management and the Marion Star, is for the purpose of making Marion a cleaner city. Boys and girls of the city are going to be given their chance to do their bit Saturday.

The "Tin Can Parade" and show Saturday will wind up the Cleanup Week activities being conducted here this week.

It doesn't make any difference to those who are interested in this campaign what kind of cans you bring, kids, just so you don't go to the trouble of wrapping 'em up. String 'em together any way to get 'em to the theater where the City Service Department will have some of its trash wagons on hand to gather up the cans and carry them to the dump.

All you have to do is drop your six cans on the pile in front of the theater and you will be admitted into the theater free.

"The Old Lady who Lived in a Shoe" —brought up to date

Once upon a time, so the fairy tale goes, an Old Lady lived in a shoe, and took care of hosts of little children, who, for one reason or another, happened to be under her care. But it was an old shoe, a shoe filled with holes, and all the neighbors in that part of Fairyland complained. It was a disgrace to the realm. Then, one day, there passed in his royal coach, a Prince of high estate. And in some manner, one of his shoes tumbled from the coach. It was made the new home of the Little Old Lady and her flock of youngsters, who transformed it into the show-place of all Fairyland.

There is a moral in this for every owner of a home. The Prince is the Knight of Civic Pride. Even old houses can seem new under the magic of a coat of paint and because everyone pitches-in and does a little to Clean Up, Fix Up and Beautify.

Members of Garden Club Plan Extensive Program For City Beautification

Activities Include Planting of Shrubbery and Trees on Public Grounds; Two or More Flower Shows To Be Held in Summer Months

An extensive program of activities has been tentatively planned by members of the Marion Garden Club for the summer months. In the interests of the community more than a dozen of the famous Japanese cherry trees will be planted between the Harding Memorial and McKinley Park, just west of the Delaware pk in early fall. A total of 2,000 iris and phlox were planted by members of the club around the lake in McKinley Park last week. Although the iris are not expected to bloom much before next summer the phlox will blossom in mid-summer.

Two or more flower shows are included on the list of club activities, interest centering particularly on the peony and iris show at the height of the peony season and the gladioli show later in the summer.

Program Outlined

The club program will include inspection trips to the various gardens represented in membership in the club, a picnic or outing and the meeting with which the season will close, when an out-of-town speaker will feature the program. The next meeting, for which the date has not been set, will be held with Mrs. John Schroeter, 417 E. Center-st, and plans will be completed at that time for the first of the season's flower shows.

Organized in 1924, the club membership now represents 45 of Marion's most attractive flower gardens. The purpose of the society is to arouse and increase interest in gardens and beautification of lawns and homes as well as for the mutual benefit of the various members of the group.

Attorney C. C. Fisher heads the organization, other officials being Mrs. Frank Longshore, vice president, R. E. White, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Wilbur Symes, Mrs. Don Evans and R. T. Lewis, executive committee.

GIVES HOME FIRST PLACE IN NATION

In one of his messages to the people, President Coolidge says:

"The home has been and ever must be a source of profound influence and inspiration in the lives of all citizens. It plays a chief role in the development of the children of our nation, for stability and uprightness . . . . . To raise the standards of the American home is, therefore, a substantial contribution to national well-being."

REALTY BOARD HEAD ENDORSES CAMPAIGN

Cleanup Spirit "Catching," R. T. Lewis Says in Comment on Annual Drive

Unqualified endorsement of "Cleanup Week" being observed in Marion has been given by the Marion Real Estate Board through its president, Ralph T. Lewis.

In speaking of CleanupWeek Mr. Lewis compared it with spring housecleaning.

"The former, however, is more noticeable," Mr. Lewis said. "It is surprising what a great improvement can be made to alleys and back yards in a few minutes.

"Then too, the spirit is catching. When one person starts to clean up a pile of trash from an out-of-the-way corner it isn't long until the neighbors are doing the same. As a result the whole city gets a good cleaning.

"With the city wagons hauling rubbish and old cans away it is a small matter to gather up the castaway articles around the house and set them out on the curbing."

PRAY FOR BISHOP

Catholics Join in Plea for Church of England Official

Birmingham, Eng.—The amazing spectacle of thousands of Roman Catholics performing an act of penance for the conduct of a bishop of the Church of England was witnessed here when 2,000 men attended a Mass at St. Chads Cathedral "in reparation for Bishop Barnes' attacks on the Real Presence."

Bishop Barnes, of Birmingham, is the cleric who has gained widespread notoriety for his uncompromising Modernism and attempts to line up Religion with Science.

The cathedral was packed to suffocation. Men knelt barebacked in the aisles, porch and even in the roadway outside.

Sermons and addresses condemning Bishop Barnes' stand were delivered.

MOURN ELSIE MACKAY

Mourning for Hon. Elsie Mackay, a victim of the ill-fated Atlantic flight, was a feature of the recent meeting of the Town Council of Stranraer, Scotland. Councillor M'Connell, head of the Summer Visitors' Committee, reported that she had promised to take part in to Stranraer aquatic sports in July, and when asked if she would give an exhibition with her airplane over the harbor she had enthusiastically volunteered to take lessons in the use of a seaplane. She also offered to carry passengers on a seaplane trip, the fares charged going toward the sports fund. McConnell told of her willingness at all times to help the people of "the southwest corner of Scotland."

PLANE BRINGS PROBLEM

Introduction of an airplane into missionary work of Australia by Rev. L. Daniels, the flying pastor of the Bush Church Aid Society, brought a problem to the members. All agreed that the idea was a splendid one for the parish, which is larger than England and Scotland combined, but how to maintain the plane was a different matter. The society had guaranteed the support of the missionary, but had no funds for upkeep of the machine, and while the flying member prepared his plane for the initial flight the others sought ways of keeping it going. Benefits then came forward with contributions, and it is hoped to raise a fund to cover maintenance and repairs.

If one were not a little evil-minded, they would be encouraged evil to others?

City Garbage Collection Department, Established in 1925, Now Serves More Than 3,500 Customers

ESTABLISHED April 1, 1925, Marion's municipal Garbage Collection Department, an important factor in the clean-up campaign this week, has grown from a department of one small Ford truck and a rubbish truck, to a service equipped with four three and four ton garbage trailers and two huge rubbish wagons.

Some idea of the work done by the department can be gained from the fact that each day more than 30 are gathered from the more than 3,500 subscribers to the city service.

Earnings Increase

Earnings of the department have kept pace with the growth in business. In 1926 the receipts were $17,-552.01, while in 1927 the income increased to $22,594.51 and, based on the earnings for the first four months this year, the receipts in 1928 will reach beyond the $28,000 mark.

Six teams of horses and a tractor are used in the gathering and disposition of garbage and rubbish. As the wagons and trailers are filled they are taken to the city yards on Owenst, where the horses are removed. Two or three trailers are then hitched together and taken by tractor to the Evans stone quarry if loaded with rubbish, and to the disposal plant west of the city, if carrying garbage.

Establishing of the municipal garbage collection department was the outgrowth of many complaints being received daily by the city health department and by councilmen against poor service from private collections. Especially was this true during the warmer months of the year. Repeated complaints finally prompted Council to take some action toward establishing of a municipal service and a trip was made to Mansfield, where a municipal system had been installed some time before.

With some minor changes, the same system in use at Mansfield was established here and was placed under the supervision of the service director.

A fee of 15 cents a week, payable four times a year, provides for the collecting of all ashes, rubbish and garbage from private homes. For hotels, restaurants and stores, where the volume of garbage and rubbish is much larger, a special rate is provided by the department.

To Service Director Benedict, who was the first to assume the responsibility of managing the new department, goes much of the credit for the success of the work. Naturally aggressive, the service director has taken an unusual interest in this branch of his work and it is generally conceded that the growth of the department made possible by the addition of equipment, has been a result of his ability to induce City Council to permit him to use the earnings of the department for the purchase of equipment.

Practically from the start the department has been self-sustaining. Nineteen men are constantly employed in the collection of garbage and rubbish, while one girl, Miss Rhea Cardiff, has charge of the bookkeeping end in the office at the city hall.

effectiveness of paint in fighting has been scientifically demon- We quote from a recent ad- Dr. Max C. Starkloff, health commissioner for St. Louis for 30 years. Doctor Starkloff said: "In a lying-in hospital of which I have knowledge there had been, in a given period, more than 100 cases of puerperal fever, with a high death rate. After the walls were painted it was noted that in the similar period following, cases of puerperal fever had become almost nil. Undoubtedly paint was largely responsible for this saving of many lives. It also has been found by actual bacteriological count," said Doctor Starkloff, "that 75 per cent fewer disease organisms adhere to a painted wall where the paint has been forced into every crack and crevice by the spray method of painting than when painting is done in the ordinary way."

Effective Germ Destroyer

The New York department of health is finding paint so effective in fighting disease germs that it is largely abandoning fumigation in rooms in which the interiors are painted and is now simply washing the painted surfaces.

There is a psychological aspect of paint we must not forget. All of us are influenced by our surroundings. With the assage of time new things become old. Family needs keep pace with income. Dilapidation gradually creeps on us and unconsciously we take on some of the shabbiness of our environment. Children especially are influenced. If walls are soiled, furniture scratched, woodwork smeared and floors worn in ugly spots, how are we going to implant beautiful ideals and cleanly desires in youthful minds? Realizing these things, freshly painted interiors assume new significance.

For all-around reducers of housecleaning labor, it is doubtful if paint and varnish have an equal, not excepting two dusky twins whose willingness to work has been heralded far and near. Just consider: painted walls are kept spotless by washing and repeated washings will not dim the finish. Painted and varnished floors require no hard scrubbing. Dirt cannot grime into window sills, stairs and other woodwork, if the surfaces are sealed with paint or varnish, and the finishes are kept bright and attractive at a minimum of effort.

Scientific Use of Paint Important in Industry, Experience Shows

Experiments have demonstrated some interesting results in the employment of color in the work room. Factory interiors finished in a warm, sunshiny yellow shade tend to stimulate employes, it has been shown, the American Paint Journal reports. On the other hand, where work is done under conditions of stress, it has been found that a shade of gray-green has a marked tendency to relieve nerve strain. The usual drab appearance of an un-painted mill town creates a discouraging atmosphere for workers and their families. Industrial concerns that have called in the service of community-planners have found that the plentiful use of house paint, chosen in a variety of bright and cheerful shades, together with some landscape gardening, works a wonderful transformation and makes more cheerful and more productive employees.

Perhaps the next great advance in merchandising awaits this capitalization of color to the fullest extent of its widespread possibilities. Whether in arranging window displays turning out automobiles, designing wearing apparel, or running a factory, there lie rich returns in the virtually untapped depths of color.

CLEANUP CODE IS OUTLINED FOR CITY

Model List of Instructions Issued for Citizens of Chattanooga

In a cleanup campaign conducted recently in Chattanooga, Tenn., the following list of instructions was issued for citizens:

See that the street, pavement and gutters in front of your home or place of business are clean.

Clean up the front yard, side yard and back yard.

See that the alleyways are clean.

See that the vacant lot next door is clean.

Eliminate breeding places for flies and mosquitoes.

Repair and repaint broken-down fences and outbuildings.

Remove rubbish and ash piles.

Clean up the porches.

Stack up old lumber orderly.

Clean the street sign on the side of your house with kerosene.

Gather up old cans and trash. Sell off all old junk.

Plant grass plots, flower beds, vegetable gardens, trees, shrubbery.

Trim up the trees.

Clean up the attic and basement. Paper the rooms. Varnish the floors and woodwork. Paint up the house.

Help conserve human life.

Help beautify Chattanooga.

APPEARANCE HELPS

A recent article in "Opportunity" Magazine says:

"The well-dressed man of today has a long running start over the man who pays little or no heed to his personal appearance."

The same principle holds true to an important extent when extended to the care of one's home.

CHASE AWAY "BLUES"

Many a case of "the blues" is due, not to color, but to the lack of it. Modern physicians recognize that bright, colorful interiors, decorated in well selected colors, are of distinct benefit to health.

If women are foolish it is because they were made to be the companions of men.

QUIT PILLS AND USE PAINT BRUSH

Many a person takes a pill who ought to take a paint brush, says the publisher's blurb on the cover of "Everyday Art," same being a snappy way of saying that folks who have lost the use of their fingers from sheer laziness, who have no desire to plant a flower, or slick up their house, or make a bird house, or hem a curtain or build a bookshelf are most likely to be the ones with long faces, dyspeptic dispositions and jaundiced outlooks on life.—New York Herald Tribune.

PAINT RECOMMENDED FOR USE IN CELLARS

Eliminates Much of Dust Which Is Despair of Particular Housewives

During the winter most of the dust that is the despair of the housewife comes from the cellar. This dust will be very largely prevented if the cement cellar floor and walls are painted; and if the cellar ceiling is painted, dust, due to the heating plant, will not work its way through floors and into upper rooms.

There are two other aspects of paint which escape the attention of most people. These are, first, its light-reflecting qualities. The use of lighter tints not only brings about real savings in lighting costs but also safe cleanliness to somber rooms. Second, tests have shown that a proper use of paint and varnish reduces fuel costs by conserving heat. In heat losses it is the number of little leaks and cracks through which warm air escapes that cuts the big hole in the coal pile. A film of paint on floors, walls and ceilings, particularly around doors and windows, seals cracks and saves fuel.

BRIGHTENS BUILDINGS

There's work for the sandblaster in every community where grime and soot get in their "dirty work." Sandblasting of the fronts of stone and brick buildings is one of the logical activities in a thorough going cleanup and paintup campaign.

American Enthusiasm For Cleanliness Is Basis of Cleanup Campaign Success

With spring comes to the housewife the fever for cleaning. Mere man is banished, or vanishes, while the bustling matron swings the broom, the dustpan and the rug paddle; or, if she is up with the modern trend, couples the vacuum cleaner to the electric cord and lets the machine automatically take up the dirt—that commodity which someone has aptly designated as "misplaced matter."

The cleanup and paintup campaign is here.

In this cleanup and paintup period is the time to get rid of the accumulated brush piles, heaps of tin cans and other worthless and unsightly encumbrances. Time to put a new coat of paint on the exterior of the house and the garage; time also for retinting the walls of the rooms or repapering them.

An American Institution

About the only luxury those early American housewives could be sure of was cleanliness in their plain little homes. Wherever that old American stock has gone, over the whole country, it has carried the enthusiasm for clean houses. The succeeding immigrants sooner or later catch the spirit.

Sometimes it takes a couple of generations for some of them to rise to the standard, but eventually they nearly all get enthusiasm for clean streets, clean yards freshly painted houses and well-scoured interiors.

It is on that general American enthusiasm for cleanliness that such an institution as the Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign has built itself.

Calls Forth Rivalry

The cleanup and paintup campaign calls forth a lot of good-natured neighborly rivalry. Even the cleanest of homes accumulates rubbish that must be carried off. More careless homes have bigger loads of it that must be gotten rid of. Yards must be made spic-and-span as the weather clears up.

Paint must be scrubbed before it is painted over again, for the true American woman knows that dirt grows through fresh paint.

Heretofore, the soldiers themselves have done kitchen duty except in the case of one or two favored regiments where women were allowed.

From now on, there will be skirts with every group of soldiers, each woman being required to cook for four hundred men.

The new order states she must be "moral" and "efficient," and will receive twenty dollars a month besides food and lodging for her services.

MINERS FACE WANT

Closing of many mines in Scotland, due to the serious condition of the coal trade, is throwing thousands of miners out of work. In the Fife district four companies closed down mines employing 2,000 men, and at a meeting of mine-workers of the district the general secretary reported that destitution was very great. At Coatbridge, several hundred unemployed made a demonstration in front of the city council chambers following refusal of the council to hear a delegation requesting an increase in the unemployment allowance. Invading the chamber they broke up the meeting, and were quieted by the police.

WOMEN NOW FAVORED AS COOKS IN FRENCH ARMY

Paris—It's "let the women do the work" in the French Army from now on. Minister of War Painleve has just given authorization to colonels of army regiments to engage women for cooks in the barracks.

Friendship and confidence are plants of slow growth.

An enemy knocks a man down then a friend proceeds to kick him.

GOES TO CHURCH

Church going is being revived in England, and this year has seen larger congregations than for some time. On special days, such as Easter, there have been greater crowds than could get in, and at times the unusual sight of people waiting in line at St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey are seen in London. On a recent Sunday these churches were forced to turn away many people, most of whom found the same condition at a number of other churches. In London suburbs and even in the country a revived interest in church attendance is reported. Scotland reports large congregations in the cities.

COOKS SPOIL LIGHT PLANS

Competition in brilliancy of lighting of business streets in Cannes, France, met its limitations recently. When the rue d'Antibes flashed forth with a new arc lighting system, merchants of other streets saw with terror the crowds that visited the street. Other thoroughfares soon blazed with light, and ventually merchants of the narrow and ancient rue Grande became enthusiastic. In one day they collected 7,000 francs for an ornamental light equipment. Then it was found that the many light were taxing the local electric light plant so that at times all the illuminations of Cannes grew dim or go out altogether, especially at the time when housewives are preparing the meals.

SCOTCH BOYS "BIRCHED"

Old-fashioned "birchings" or whippings were recently meted to six boys from nine to 13 years old, in a court in Edinburgh, Scotland. They were given three stripes each. They threw stones at a passenger train, breaking 13 windows in coaches and engine.

The ardent lover is all at sea when his best girl throws him overboard.

There are a thousand kinds of drudgery, and each kind is a nuisance.

The Electrical Revolution

Electrical Conveniences

The electrical breakfast is no longer an experiment. The coffee is better when it is electrically percolated. Toast is far less trouble, and comes to you piping hot, when electrically toasted on the table, and there are electric grills for frying eggs and preparing bacon, or making waffles; in fact, anything you might desire for the breakfast menu.

And all of the former incompletenesses of these appliances have been overcome—they work—and they work economically.

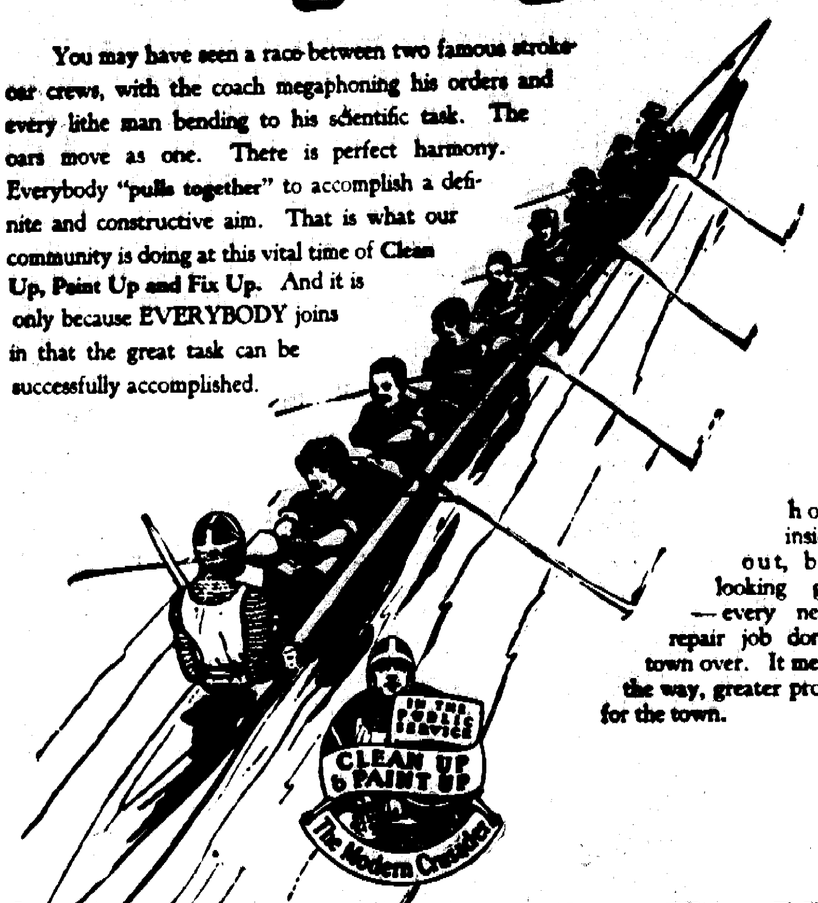
'Pulling Together!'

You may have seen a race between two famous stroke oar crews, with the coach megaphoning his orders and every lithe man bending to his scientific task. The oars move as one. There is perfect harmony. Everybody "pulls together" to accomplish a definite and constructive aim. That is what our community is doing at this vital time of Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up. And it is only because EVERYBODY joins in that the great task can be successfully accomplished.



Tidier homes, inside and out, better looking gardens —every necessary repair job done, the town over. It means, by the way, greater prosperity for the town.

Pace of Business 25 Times Faster Than 25 Years Ago

Chicago, May 23—Business experience is a handicap to an executive.

J. George Frederick, president of the Business Bourse exchange, of New York, a research organization, has outlined a new type of business executive, for Chicago industrial leaders, and experience he says, is one of the assets of the new business leader.

"Production in the United States now is more than 40 per cent greater than the consumption, and the result is that the executive must find new markets, and create a new demand for his product," Frederick said.

"Past experience, as a guide, is worse than useless. It is a handicap.

"In the past business has become set in its ways. It has developed certain systems of marketing, and certain standards of production. Now these standards are out of date. The nation's industry has reached a point where an entirely new system is necessary.

Finding New Outlets

"The new executive is forging ahead, a pioneer. He is finding new outlets for his products, and that calls for a high amount of ingenuity, unhampered by precedents."

Research, according to the New York official, is the key to development for American industry.

New facts, being discovered daily, make old methods antiquated. Axioms that were accepted a week ago may not all be axioms at all today.

The demand for new outlets for production, it was pointed out.

"The pace of business today is twenty-five times that of twenty-five years ago, and the man who is out of touch with his business for a year is absolutely out of date," according to Frederick.

"Changes are so rapid that only the most versatile of executives is able to keep on top of the heap. He must be able to change his mind, discard all his old theories and construct new ones, on the spur of the moment.

"As production increases and the range of manufactured products broadens, the head of the business must be constantly finding new markets. He must establish new channels as fast as the business expands."

Prominent business leaders in Chicago, with control of concerns that market in all parts of the country and branch out into foreign trade channels, have endorsed Frederick's view of the 1928 executive.

Examples of Changes

The women's wear industry, the shoe industry and others were cited as examples of the kaleidoscopic changes of the modern business era. Women's shoes changed overnight from something to cover the feet to decorative style touches in dress. In a comparatively short time an entire old system was overturned and a new one set up. Those manufacturers who failed to adjust themselves and their concerns to the change were lost hopelessly, and their markets were usurped by more facile leaders.

Radio became in a few months a life-and death competitor of pianos, phonographs and cheap automobiles.

Giant industries lock horns in vital struggles to dispose of ther products, and old marketing systems are junked without a thought for the rules that once governed production and distribution in these industries.

Research, Frederick pointed out, has become the right hand of the executive. Studies are being carried out not alone into the immediate needs of a particular industry, but into other industries, to discover what their relations are to each other and into foreign possibilities for sales.

All relevant facts are gathered; on a basis of them the executives often are forced to change their entire business course.

"The executive of the future will be a keen minded opportunist, adapting his business to the latest information," Frederick said. "He will govern his actions by the immediate conditions as a poker player governs his play by his varying hands.

"In the background, the research man and analyst will be ceaselessly gathering that information.

You can't do a good paint job, in and around your home, without a good brush. The average amateur does not seem to be aware of this and either uses some old brush that happens to be in the cellar or buys the very cheapest brush possible—although being very fussy in the matter of the quality of paint.
Just as there is a paint, a varnish or an enamel for almost every kind of job, so there are brushes made for exclusive purposes.
Come in and we will assist you in selecting the right brushes and the ones which will get production at the tips of your fingers.

I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE THAT MY LITTLE MYSTERY BOY IS GONE! FOR HIS SAKE I'M GLAD HIS FATHER FOUND HIM, BUT LIFE WON'T SEEM THE SAME TO ME WITHOUT HIM!
THE LITTLE FELLOW CRIED HIS HEAD OFF WHEN HE SAID GOODBYE TO US, UNCLE! HE HATED TO LEAVE WITHOUT SEEING YOU!
UNCLE'S FEELING PRETTY BLUE, CASPER, EVEN THOUGH HE DOESN'T SHOW IT! IT'S MEN LIKE HIM WHO KEEP THEIR TROUBLES TO THEMSELVES THAT FEEL THEIR HEART-ACHES WORSE!
IT'S TOO BAD HE CAN'T THROW A GOOD CRY, AND HAVE IT OVER WITH, TOOTS!
IF I HAD MY LIFE TO LIVE OVER I'D HAVE MARRIED LONG AGO AND HAD A LITTLE BUTTERCUP OF MY OWN· I'VE GOT MILLIONS, AND CHARGE HIS TEARS AND HOW I WISH HE'D

$300 SUIT RESULTS FROM AUTO CRASH

Judgment Asked by LeRoy S. Burkepile in Action Against James Thurston

Seeking a judgment of $300 for damages to his automobile alleged to have resulted from a collision with a car driven by the defendant, LeRoy S. Burkepile, 19, through his mother, Stella E. Burkepile, brought suit against James Thurston, 236 W. Columbia-st in Municipal Court yesterday.

Burkepile charges in his petition that he was driving east on Mt. Vernon-av, April 22, and as he started to turn north on Summit-st Thurston, driving east at the rate of 40 miles an hour, crashed into his machine. He asks $225 for damages to the car and $75 for the three weeks he says he was without a machine as a result of the collision. The petition was filed by L. E. Myers, attorney for Burkepile.

The weight of the world is represented by tons indicated by six with twenty-one noughts after it.

Ritzy Rosey

For such time wasters as Ritzy Rosey and Penelope, who fritter away an hour chattering and then dress in two minutes, are these new combinations made. The former's newest panties peep out to reveal garters fastened to them. And Penelope is wearing a three-in-one slip. Step-ins are attached beneath. Petticoats also are fashioned with step-ins for the tailored suit.

Two Facts About Brick Paving
of financial interest to any Taxpayer

Weather usually starts what traffic merely finishes, in destroying pavement.
Paving materials not specially made to prevent it, absorb water. This sets up injurious chemical change—or, freezing, expands and destroys. And paving surfaces, not designed to have resilience, suffer from traffic punishment.
Paving brick, being vitrified, is unchanging. It does not change chemically; does not soften. It does not absorb water. Laid on any good base, with sand cushion, and bound with asphalt, it is a flexible surface—one which water does not penetrate.
Nothing can wear out this toughest of all surfaces. And it protects the base from weather and traffic. Wherever brick pavements are, low cost records prove this.
"The A. B. C. of Good Roads," a 64-page booklet, tells the records and facts from engineers, taxpayers, public officials, etc. Sent free. Write for your copy. Address Paving Brick Manufacturers' Association, 1367 Builders' Building, Chicago.

REPORT LINDY ON AERO BOARD

Curtiss and Wright Advance 10 Points on Big Board

Markets at a Glance

Industrial stocks firm, railroad stocks firm, domestic bonds irregular, foreign bonds irregular, call money six percent, grain steady, cotton steady, oil firm, copper firm, rubber steady, sugar steady, pig iron firm; foreign exchange irregular.

BY W. S. COUSINS
International News Service
Financial Editor

New York, May 2—Under the lead of the motor stocks and industrials, the market shook off its reactionary tone quite early in today's session, and recovered most of the ground lost in Tuesday's heavy selling movement. The airplane stocks regained about 10 points each and General Motors again forged to the front as the leader of the bull party in the motors.

Stimulus was given to the buying of airplane stocks by the announcement of Col. Charles Lindbergh's affiliation with the new transcontinental Air Transport, in an important advisory capacity. The seven points and the Curtiss and Wright stocks advanced 10 points each on the big board.

Aside from the favorable industrial reports which poured into the financial district, it was recognized that the market's technical position had been improved by the drop in prices and the heavy short selling which has been taking place since Monday morning. The coppers were ready to respond to these conditions, strengthened by the advance in copper metal prices and the increasing worldwide demand for the metal. Greene Cananea jumped six points and new gains of a point or more were recorded for Cerro De Pasco, Anaconda, etc.

The iron age reported a large volume of steel passing directly into consumption with steel output well maintained. Production at Chicago is running at 95 per cent of mill capacity and in Pittsburgh at 75 per cent, against 80 per cent a few weeks ago. Basic and Bessemer pig iron prices are down 25 to 50 cents a ton.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Twenty-three cent strawberries were on the market today. From that point the price ranged up to 30 cents. While small, the 23-cent berries were of a fairly good quality and dealers report a ready sale. Home-grown strawberries are expected to appear on the market within the next two weeks. A short crop of home-grown varieties is looked for by dealers unless this territory is visited by rain within the near future.

Vegetable prices were, in the main, unchanged from yesterday. Leaf lettuce continues scarce and high. Good quality stock was selling today at 25 cents a pound, the peak price of the last year. Head lettuce continues plentiful and was selling today at 10, 15 and 20 cents. Old potatoes at 35 cents continue to supply the bulk of the demand, although dealers report an increase in the demand for new stock at five pounds for 25 cents. Cucumbers were being offered at 15 cents. Home-grown rhubarb continues plentiful and was selling today at three bunches for 10 cents.

Fruit Prices

Dealers report an increase in the demand for pineapples. Small varieties are selling at 15 cents and larger sizes at 20 and 30 cents. Lemons are holding at 39 cents a dozen. Oranges continue too sell at a wide range of prices. Small fruit is selling at 25 cents while prices of larger varieties range as high as 75 cents. Bananas are plentiful and are selling at three and five pounds for 25 cents.

Retail meat prices were steady with dealers reporting a slight increase in buying. No marked change in prices is looked for by dealers for the next three weeks.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, May 23—The grain markets achieved a strong close yesterday after a sickish spell early in the afternoon. Nothing in the news was of a particularly bullish nature, but we are entering upon a period when prices often move up and down without pecuniary symptoms or warnings.

At the end wheat was up 1¼@2⅛c; corn was ⅝@⅞c higher; oats were ⅛@⅜c better; rye was up ½@1¼c.

That rarest of months, June, is close at hand. One of the attributes of its rarity in grain trading is usually discernible in the frequency of taking profits. Fickle, fickle month in which brides take husbands they are ready to throw onto the divorce counter in Reno later on; and when wheat and corn are wanted by everybody one day only to be dumped at bargain prices the next.

What May Holt Today

June is not here yet, but the markets may be developing the tendency that prevails in that month. Therefore, wheat may not move on upward today as so many traders thought it would do at the close yesterday. Fluctuations seem to be largely due to a local buying and selling, with only a small outside trade.

The market in consequence is apt to lack backbone. The news on wheat can hardly develop a decided incentive either for sales or purchases until the situation in the spring wheat area has progressed considerably further.

To buy wheat in reports of dry weather in the Northwest now would be a little like throwing away all the good stuff in the cellar on reports that prohibition will be strictly enforced. It will be better to wait and see.

Agriculture Is Reading

The general picture presented at this time of year is always more apt to be bearish than bullish. Agriculture is beginning its annual boom. If the fields are not actually smiling they are least are looking pleasant and express no worry about short crops.

If the spring wheat crop this year should be a large one and if the winter wheat crop should turn out better than the last government report and acted as probable—and this is a contingency that now seems more than probable—there may be plenty of wheat. At any rate this will seem likely until more definite news about yields is forthcoming.

The corn situation remains the same. The bulls are very bullish, and bears are waiting watchfully for the right bulge on which to sell. The market has strong concentrated support, but the outside public does not show a disposition to follow advances with buying orders.

There is no denying that a strong cash situation exists, but nevertheless it has not yet been strong enough to force May corn to a premium above the more deferred futures. For that future to be selling at a discount under the July is not a bullish market position.

GIRLS WIN HONORS IN SPELLING BEE

Ohio Youngster Trips on "Knack" and Takes Second Place

Washington, May 23—Girls always were the best spellers, anyway.

They proved it again in the National Spelling Bee, annually conducted by a group of newspapers in various parts of the country, by finishing one, two, three.

Betty Robinson, representing the South Bend News-Times, won the national title and the prize of $1,000. She spelled "knack" after Pauline Gray of West Salem, Ohio, representing the Akron Beacon-Journal, had failed to include the "k" in the word. Pauline was second and won $500.

Benny Doig of Detroit, won third place. The word "bacillus" proved Benny's undoing. She thought there were two c's in it.

Anna Murphy of New Britain, Conn., tripped over "magic." Edna Malarick of Youngstown, Ohio, stumbled on "occurred."

Abram Belanger of New Bedford, Mass., failed on the word "middy" and his feminine opponents all giggled, much to Abram's discomfiture.

There were 23 contestants in the national bee.

PROGRAM OF MUSIC GIVEN AT MEETING

Members of the Builders Class of the United Brethren Church met last night at the church Community House. A short business meeting was held, after which a male quartet and Misses Eunice, Eugene and Dorothy Winniger entertained with songs. A potluck supper was enjoyed. The next meeting of the class will be held June 26.

STEMS TIDE

Northern Army Halts Southern Horde Near Peking

London, May 22—Chang Tso-Lin's northern army appears to have stemmed somewhat the southern horde now sweeping northward towards Peking, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hong Kong indicated today.

The northerners engaged in two fierce clashes with Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's nationalist troops at Nangchow and Hokeiafu and emerged victors in each, the dispatch stated.

Telegraph communication between Peking and Tientsin has been severed so that details of these clashes are lacking. Japanese troops are said to be in control of the railroad between these two cities.

Setting an example goes farther than giving advice.

Which Will Marion Choose?

Throbbing machinery — busy streets — the roar of traffic — happy people — money in the bank — prosperity.

Dying town — very little business — an automobile here and there — people just living — industrial stagnation.

There, in a few words, you have the pictures of two towns. One abuzz with activity — the other dying the death of narrow-mindedness and selfishness.

The future of Marion rests with Marion. Your town can either be one of prosperity or become industrially sterile.

Marion must be able to assure industries of an adequate gas supply. In giving this assurance to business Marion is also assuring its future growth.

Gas is vital to Marion. Every day that Marion puts off the settlement of the gas rate means loss of business, money and prosperity. Your Gas Company is eager to help Marion grow. All it asks is that you recognize the fact that

6 things to understand about used car allowances

1 When you trade-in your used car for a new car, you are first of all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.

2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

3 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

4 The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

5 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

Fund For Cattle Testing Not to Benefit Marion County Inspector Says

$150,000 Federal and State Appropriation Intended Only for Territory in County Area Plan; Area Testing Proposal Now Pending Before Local Board of Commissioners

Expenditure of approximately $150,000 by the State Department of Agriculture and the Federal government to continue tuberculin testing of Ohio cattle will in no way effect the present plan of tuberculin testing being carried out by Dr. J. T. Gruber, local milk and meat inspector, he announced today. Appropriations of the fund was announced at Columbus early this week.

Only those counties receiving county area testing will be benefited by expenditure of the money, Dr. Gruber said. In those counties where the county testing area plan is being carried out, the county pays for the actual testing of the cattle and the state and federal governments reimburse the cattleman for the loss of his stock, usually paying about two-thirds of the value of any cattle found to be "reactors."

To secure the county area plan, it is necessary for the county commissioners to provide money to pay the county's share of the cost, which, according to Dr Gruber, varies from $200 to $400 a township, depending upon the number of cases of tuberculosis discovered. While friendly to the plan, the commissioners of Marion county have thus far failed to provide the necessary funds.

Petitions Circulated

Petitions circulated in Waldo, Pleasant and Tully townships seeking the county area testing plan have received signatures of practically all of the cattlemen, Dr. Gruber said. Under the plan now being carried out by the local inspector, discovery of a reactor in a herd means a total loss to the owner. Regardless of the value of the cow, it is immediately disposed of.

Basing his figures on the results of tests made since establishing of the present milk code, Dr. Gruber said he would place the number of tubercular cattle in the county at the present time at about three per cent. The first year of the code, Dr. Gruber says he found approximately four and nine-tenths per cent of the cattle afflicted with the disease. The second year the number had been reduced to three and nine-tenths while at the present time it would reach about three per cent.

All raw milk, that is milk not pasteurized sold in the city, is from tuberculin tested cows, the inspector said. Proper pasteurization, the bringing of milk to a certain temperature and holding it at this point for a certain period of time, kills tubercular germs and is recognized as a preventive of bovine tuberculosis. The danger, Gruber says, is that from one cause or another, the milk may not be properly treated, allowing the germs to live. For this reason the County Area Testing plan has been established by the state.

Fifteen counties of the state are free from tubercular cattle as the result of the plan, reports show.

MEDAL FOR FLIER

Committee Recommends Award for Clarence Chamberlin

Washington, May 23—A Congressional Medal of Honor for Clarence Chamberlin, the New York-to-Germany flier, was recommended today by the House Coinage Committee, but the committee refused to indorse a similar medal for Charles A. Levine, who owned the ship and accompanied Chamberlin on his historic flight.

The amendment to include Levine in the award was sponsored by Representative Cohen, Democrat of New York, who also introduced the original bill.

SUFFERS DEFEAT

House Repasses Bill Over Coolidge's Veto

Washington, May 23 — President Coolidge suffered defeat yesterday in his first veto brush with the present Congress.

By the overwhelming vote of 319 to 42, the House repassed over his veto the Sproul-Moses bill which grants night postal workers a 10 per cent increase in pay.

In his veto message some days ago, the president estimated the measure would cost the government $6,356,000 annually. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Another bill was carried over the president's veto when the House, 319 to 45, passed the Griest bill, increasing by $2,865,000 a year the allowances for fourth class postmasters.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS

Members of Prospect Group Program and Business Session

Prospect, May 23—The Freeman Bible Class of the Methodist Sunday School held their regular social Monday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holt, N. Elm-st. B. F. Retterer had charge of the meeting, which opened by singing "The Church in the Wild Wood," and Rev. O. E. Smith offered prayer.

After a short business meeting Mrs. Bert Fisk gave a reading, "St. Peter at the Gate;" J. D. McKinnie entertained with a solo, and Mrs. Margaret Wynn gave a reading, "An Invitation." Two contests were enjoyed. In the bean contest Mrs. A. D. Graham was the winner, and in the drawing contest Charley Fleming won the honors. After a social time refreshments were served by the committee, of which Mrs. Margaret Wynn was chairman.

It is easy enough to get a high price for your used furniture if enough ADDITIONAL PROFIT is made on the new merchandise you select.

The best way—the safest way—is to say nothing in the store you are visiting, about your intention to trade in some used furniture, until AFTER you have learned the lowest price on the new purchase you expect to make.

Here, in Schaffner's there is but one price on new merchandise, whether you have something to trade in, or not. There is only one appraisal price on used goods, and that is the highest price that we can sell it for after it has been refinished and reconditioned. When you are offered a higher price than we offer, you can rest assured that you are losing the difference back, either in cheaper quality goods or because the difference has been tacked on to the price of the new furniture. We are in business to stay. You will always get a square deal here.

WHETSTONE GRANGE PRESENTS PROGRAM

Are Guests of Grand Prairie Group Last Night; Social Hour Enjoyed

Members of the Whetstone Grange, No. 1285, presented an entertaining program at the meeting of members of Grand Prairie Grange, No. 2370 held at the Grand Prairie school house northeast of the city. During the short business session plans were made to ballot on five candidates at the next meeting in two weeks. Arrangements also were made to attend the Perrysburg Grange meeting to be held June 2 when members of Progressive Grange will entertain at the hall at Perrysburg Community, southeast of Maumee.

The program hour opened with a song, "America," and a recitation, "Independence," by C. H. Ruth. A playlet, "Catching the Train to Trask," was given by Miss Hazel Hensel, Ernest Klingel, Miss Ruth Klingel and Delbert Ebert. Ralph Klingel contributed a reading, "Sweet Sixteen," and a recitation was given by Miss Ida Klingel.

"Getting a Marriage License" was the title of a play given by Carl Ruth, Ralph Klingel and Gertrude Klingel, and Jon Ebert gave a monologue, "Novel Relation." "Suppose," was the title of a recitation by Miss Dorothy Klingel and a play, "Pa Gets Lit," was presented by John Ruth, George Augenstine, Miss Ruth Klingel, Miss Hazel Hensel and Miss Lucile Ruth. A monologue, "She's Different," was given by Carl Ruth and the program hour concluded with a playlet, "Family Holdback," by Miss Mary Klingel, Delbert Aukman, Ralph Klingel, Erma Ruth, Harold Klingel and Lucille Ruth, a recitation, "A Foolish Job," by Carl Ruth, selections by the Whetstone Sharps and Flats,' and a song, "Good Night Grangers." Refreshments and a social hour followed the program.

HOOVER IS GIVEN 508, AL SMITH 612

Only Few States Left That Haven't Selected Delegates

gates. In any event, the result is not expected to make or break any candidacy.

Gov. Al Smith's delegate total as of today is figured in the most reliable tables in Washington at approximately 612 or 122 short of the necessary two-thirds. His supporters claim enough reserve strength among the favorite son delegates to nominate him on the second or third ballots, and even the "last ditchers" against the New York governor are disposed to admit the correctness of the claim.

Hoover Given 508

On the Republican side, the tables compiled here give Hoover as of today a delegate total of approximately 508, included in which is the full Pennsylvania delegation of 79, but none at all from New York. If these figures can be made to stand up, they mean that the cabinet candidate will go to Kansas City with but two score votes standing between him and the nomination.

There is, however, considerable controversy over these Hoover figures, the Lowden people in particular insisting that Hoover has been too generous in his claiming. They are not yet disposed to admit that he will get all of Pennsylvania's 79 votes, even though Secretary of the Treasury Mellon did say that of the available candidates Hoover appealed most to him.

Claims Are Involved

The Hoover claims are involved, too, with approximately 75 contests which the Republican National Committee, sitting as judge and jury, will have to thresh out at Kansas City, starting June 4. Most of these contests arise, as usual, in the southern states where the Republican organizations are constantly at loggerheads.

In most cases, Hoover has the so-called organization with him in these southern contests. The national committeemen, some of them Negroes, have committemen, some of them Negroes have Hoover war chest, as brought out by the Senate's investigation into campaign expenditures. Typical examples were furnished in Mississippi and Gorgia, where Perry Howard and Ben Davis, the Negro national committeemen, who are also delegates, received $2,000 and $2,200 respectively. Lowden's friends on the national committee are planning to ask for a definition of the difference between such transactions and that in Missouri in 1920, which killed Lowden's chances for the nomination.

Should the national committee throw out any appreciable number of the contested Hoover delegates it may have an important bearing on the final result, for the anti-Hoover "allies" are militantly determined to stop the cabinet candidate at Kansas City, and are not yet convinced they haven't the votes to do it.

LINDBERGH JOINTS NEW AVIATION LINE

recommendation of Lindbergh who was in conference with officials of the railroad and airplane companies before the new corporation was organized. Passengers are to be carried in big, specially constructed planes equipped with the best safety devices. The service is to be both ways, from east to west, and vice versa. The cost of the coast-to-coast trip will be slightly more than the cost of a railroad journey with drawing room accommodations.

Practical Air Man

"Lindy," through his identification with the company, will be steadily increasing his earning powers. It is estimated that he already has earned $1,000,000 from various enterprises, including newspaper articles and the book "We." It was a few days more than a year ago when he made his epochal non-stop flight from New York to Paris, and since that time he has given his time unstintingly to enterprises from which he drew no revenue such as acting as America's "good will ambassador" to various countries.

The technical committee which Lindbergh will head will be composed of practical aviation men. Some of its members remain to be chosen and its personnel has not been announced. This committee will lay out and pass upon routes that eventually will connect with the transcontinental line. In due time, officials of the company say, a network of air-rail routes all over the country will be in operation, these feeder lines connecting with the main New York-to-Los Angeles route.

Planes Not Selected

It has been decided that three-motored planes, capable of carrying 12 to 14 passengers and their hand baggage, will be used over the transcontinental route but no make of plane has been selected. The tri-motored Fokker monoplanes, the Ford tri-motored all metal passenger air transport and the Boeing tri-motored passenger transport are among the possibilities.

Airplane stocks in Wall Street soared this morning on the news that Lindbergh had entered the business field. Curtiss Aero jumped 10 points in early trading on the exchange to 130 and Wright Aero also made a 10-point advance to 178.

Disposes of Rumors

Lindbergh's acceptance of the position with the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., definitely disposed of rumors to the effect that he was making arrangements for a trip in June by air to Europe with intermediate stops in Labrador, Greenland and Iceland.

Even though Lindbergh would give no countenance to such rumors they were several times reiterated, even at a time when it was known that Lindbergh was in consultation with business men with a view of entering upon a business career. Lindbergh has several times expressed extreme annoyance over the publication of his alleged "plans" which subsequent events proved to be untrue and "hopped up" conjecture.

course of one year they will remove earth from approximately one million tons of coal.

The dipper on each shovel has a capacity of 12 cubic yards. One dipper will fill eight wagons. By taking one huge bite every 45 seconds one shovel will handle 15,000 cubic yards of earth in 24 hours.

Electrically Operated

The shovels are electrically operated. Some idea of the size of the dippers may be gained from the fact that a medium sized automobile could be driven into them. A six-foot man standing in the dipper can barely reach the top with the tips of his fingers.

The first shovel to be put in operation was ordered last June. Twenty-two freight cars were required to ship the machine to the coal field. The 90-foot boom will deposit a dipper of earth on a pile 65 feet high and 110 feet from the center of the shovel.

It is estimated that the four shovels have a 40 year job ahead of them providing they are worked at capacity for that time. The coal field owned by the Northern Illinois Coal Corporation, it is estimated, contains 40,000,000 tons of recoverable coal.

authorize the Common Pleas judge to conduct a hearing and declare a public office vacant after a complaint has been filed by five per cent of the electors who participated in the last general election.

Such a complaint, the law provides, must be signed by not less than 10 electors nor more than 10,000.

Report Completed

T. W. Jones, state examiner in charge of inspection of the recorder's accounts, said this morning that the work would be completed today and a report filed with the state bureau this afternoon.

Details of the report are not likely to be made public before next week, according to information coming from State Auditor Tracy. The report must first be submitted to A. E. Peckingpaugh, head of the county office department of the state inspection bureau. Mr. Peckingpaugh, Tracy said, will be absent from his office for the remainder of this week and as a consequence can not give his attention to the report at this time.

Two Building Applications Are Filed at Meeting of City Planning Commission

Plans for Store Structure on Davids-st Approved; Filling Station Proposal is Tabled for Further Investigation; Zone Rule Change May Be Recommended

Applications for permission to build a filling station at the southeast corner of N. Main-st and Fairground-st and a grocery store building at the southeast corner on Davids-st and Wood-st, were considered by the City Planning Commission at a called meeting held in the office of Mayor Hasen, last night.

The application for the filling station, filed by P. E. Kunkle and accompanied by a petition signed by 11 property owners, waiving any objection to the station, was tabled by the commission for further investigation.

The application states the proposed site has been occupied by billboards for the past 15 years and that an ornamental building costing not less than $5,000 would be built. The station would face Main-st, 20 feet from that street and 30 feet from Fairground-st and would be of a three-pump capacity.

Referred to Council

An application to build a grocery store building on the southeast corner of Davids and Wood-sts, filed with the commission by E. V. Granger, 279 N. Greenwood-st, was referred to City Council by the commission with recommendation that permission be granted. The building would be of brick and cut stone, according to the application, which was accompanied by a petition signed by 14 property owners waiving objections.

Those who seek the privilege of erecting buildings in restricted zones, which are ordinarily barred from the zone, will, if a suggestion made by C. E. Merkel at the meeting last night become effective be required to pay for any legislation necessary to the changing of the zone. In the past any cost in connection with the extending of a zone to permit a building ordinarily barred from the zone has been borne by the city. This, it was decided by the commission, should be borne by the one seeking the change and the matter will be presented to City Council at the meeting Monday night.

Reports Made After City-Wide Tabulation by Realtors average for cities of this size, it was stated at the meeting.

Yesterday's survey was made in a systematic canvass of all streets in the city, groups of realtors being assigned to various sections.

R. T. Lewis, president of the board, reported that satisfactory progress is being made with the realtors' program of city beautification. Officers of the board have been negotiating with railroad officials for remedying unattractive points in the vicinity of the Union Station and it was stated that definite action is expected before fall.

"Screens" Planned

Installation of billboards and lattice to screen off unsightly views from railway trains is included in the program. Railway officials, it was stated, are cooperating in the work.

A "Know Ohio Week" program was included in last night's proceedings, the subject being discussed in a talk by Mr. Lewis.

A resolution was adopted endorsing Cleanup Week activities. It read as follows:

"Resolved, that the beautification of Marion streets, parks and gardens is an added asset to our city; that the orderly upkeep of lawns and yards adds value to any property and beauty and desirability to the neighborhood; that this unit beautification added to Marion's natural beauty will make it eventually one of the most beautiful and most desirable cities in Ohio in which to live."

CURIOUS BOY SENDS MACHINE INTO CRASH

Youth Throws Car in Gear as Mother Enters Store

One of the most peculiar automobile accidents recorded in local police records for years occurred on W. Center-st about 11 o'clock this morning.

An idling motor, an inquisitive four-year-old boy and a wobbling gear-shift lever caused all the trouble.

Mrs. John Ellington, 782 Cheney-av, had driven her Overland touring car into an alley just west of Main-st. She left the motor running while she went into a nearby store to make a purchase. While his mother was gone, the lad, who was left in the car, began an investigation to find out what made the machine go.

He found out when he jerked the gear shift lever into reverse and the car started backward with a lunge. On entering the street the car negotiated a right angle turn and crashed into a parked machine.

Abadly scared youngster who had lost all desire to investigate further into the mystery of a humming motor greeted the mother as she hurried to the machine.

Neither car was damaged to any extent.

15 STUDENTS LEAVE RANKS OF STRIKERS

New Boston High School Students Want Three Teachers Re-employed

Portsmouth, May 23—Ranks of the 150 striking pupils who walked out of the Glenwood High School, New Boston, at noon yesterday, as a protest against the action of the board of education in not re-employing three of their favorite teachers, were weakened today by the desertion of 15 of the striking students who returned to their classrooms this morning, according to an official of the school.

Board members refused to comment on the situation. Pupils alleged "politics" was responsible for the board's decision.

Prin. R. R. Higley, Miss Martha Pollitt, English and mathematics teacher, and John E. Quick, auto mechanic and radio teacher, are the three members of the faculty whose re-employment the students demand. The 150 boys and girls, practically the whole student body, paraded in New Boston yesterday, carrying banners inscribed "We Want Higley."

BIG CROWD ON HAND AS CIRCUS ARRIVES

Many Marionites Up Early To See Hagenbeck-Wallace Show Unload

Many Marion residents didn't wait until the opening of the afternoon show to get their first glimpse of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which is showing in the city today. When the train pulled in on an Erie siding near Greenwood-st about 6 o'clock this morning there were a few there waiting for it.

As the work of unloading started the crowd began to increase and in a short time had grown to large proportions. The circus came here from Ashland, where it showed yesterday, when that city was visited by a circus for the first time in about five years. From here the show will go to Sandusky, Thursday, over the Pennsylvania.

The entrance to the big top was to open this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The show was scheduled to start at 2. Tonight's performance will start at 8 o'clock. The entrance will open an hour earlier.

EXTENDS INVITATION FOR LEGION MEETING

Bird-McGinnis Post Would Be Host to Central District

An invitation to hold the next Central District Conference of the American Legion in this city, was forwarded today to Lewis Leger, chairman of the district, as the result of action taken at the meeting of Bird-McGinnis Post held in the Legion Dug-out on Higher last night.

The meetings are held only on the call of the chairman and it is the hope of the local Legionnaires that if this city is selected as the meeting place, it will be held following the dedication of the Harding Memorial, on a tour of inspection of the memorial and the Harding home will probably be a part of the program.

Between 200 and 400 representatives of the Legion attended the conference held in London two months ago and it is expected a still greater number would come to this city. The meeting which would be held on Sunday would probably open with a dinner to be followed by a tour of the city with a program at be Chautauqua pavilion at Garfield park.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary were guests of the Legion at the meeting last night. An indoor pain game was a feature of the program held following the meeting. A lunch was also served.

2 EXPLOSIONS TAKE 22 MEN IN COAL MINES

Fire Breaks Out in West Virginia Shaft and Halts Rescue Work

Bluefield, W. Va., May 23—Fire breaking out in the wrecked No 1 mine of the Yukon Pocahontas Coal Co. at Yukon, McDowell County, early today, handicapped efforts of rescue crews seeking the bodies of four men who are believed to have been among the 17 to have lost their lives in an explosion last night.

Thirteen bodies had been brought to the mouth of the mine at daybreak when the rescue crews were forced to turn their attention toward combatting the fire.

Messages received here at 11 o'clock indicated that the fire was under control and that the bodies would be reached late this afternoon.

FIVE LOSE LIVES

73 Miners Caught in Shaft Explosion in Kentucky

Lexington, Ky., May 23—Five miners are known to be dead and 10 are missing, according to reports received here today from mine No 30 of the Black Mountain Coal Corporation at Kenvir, Harlan County, near the Kentucky-Virginia state line.

About 75 miners were caught in the mine shaft last night just after the night shift had relieved the day men. Cause of the explosion has not been learned, officials at the mine reported. Federal mine rescue crews were dispatched from Lexington and Norton, Va.

GALION MEN ENTER PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY

K K Campbell and Harry Campbell, brought back to this city from Galion to answer to a charge of defrauding Mrs Alice Wren, who conducts a rooming house on N. Prospect-st, out of a $76 rooming bill, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning and are being held for their hearing this afternoon.

RULING SUSTAINED IN INSURANCE CASE

Judge Killits Upholds Local Court's Finding in Silas Raub Suit

The case of the Union Central Life Insurance Co. against Silas A. Raub, which started in Common Pleas Court two years ago, was settled recently when Judge Killits of the Federal Court at Toledo sustained the decision of the lower court.

The case was an interpleader suit to determine to whom the proceeds of an endowment insurance policy should be paid. The proceeds were claimed by Raub and by Attorney Hoke Donithen, referee in a bankruptcy case involved in the suit.

The lower court held that the proceeds should be paid to Raub. Judge Killits' decision was given on May 14. Raub was represented in the suit by Attorney Ben T. Wiant.

Trial Date Changed

Date for the trial of Curtis Sheppard, charged with burglary and attempting to force a safe, has been changed from May 31 to June 1. The change was made due to the conflict with the session of the Court of Appeals which is to be held on the former date.

TOLEDO MAN FOUND DEAD IN JAIL HERE

Samuel Topper, Mentally Deranged, Ends Life by Hanging

Samuel Topper, about 60, said to be from Toledo, committed suicide by hanging in the county jail about 10:40 o'clock last night. Topper was found by other inmates of the jail when they became suspicious after failing to hear any sound in his cell.

He appealed at police headquarters for protection from some unknown assailant about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He is said to have been deranged mentally and imagined he was being followed by some one.

Sheriff James A. Deal was appealed to by the police and the man was placed in a cell in the county jail. Sheriff Deal immediately got in touch with two nephews, David and Isadore Topper, Toledo attorneys.

About 7 o'clock last night Topper decided that he wanted to get out on foot for Chicago. The sheriff, however, convinced him that he should remain in jail for the night and rest, telling him that his nephews would be here in the morning.

When Topper was found dead it was discovered that he had tied his handkerchief around a water pipe running across the ceiling of the cell, made a noose of his belt and tied the loose end through the handkerchief, then stepped off the edge of his bunk.

HEARING DATE SET

Ray Williams, colored, living on Harrison-st, who was arrested on an affidavit filed in Municipal Court by Theodore Williams, white, charging him with striking Williams' 10-year-old son, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge W. R. Martin in municipal court this morning and his hearing was set for 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Dominec Speziani, arrested at W. Center and Davids-sts, Sunday night on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated after the machine he was driving, it is said, had narrowly escaped collision with several other cars, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning and was released under $1,000 bond for his appearance in court at 9:30 o'clock on May 31.

STATE INSPECTORS NOW IN MARION

Will Check Up Buildings as Part of Local Cleanup Week Program

Visit of a crew of inspectors from the office of state fire marshal who will make an inspection of buildings in the business district as a part of the Cleanup Week observances here, was announced by Fire Chief McFarland today. The men arrived this morning and will spend the remainder of the week here.

The inspectors will be assisted in their work by men from the various fire stations. In addition to inspecting uptown buildings for fire hazards, the inspectors will also visit a number of places in the outlying districts, about which complaints have been received, the chief said.

TWO MARION COUNTY SCHOOLS HEAR TALKS

Commencement Exercises Held at Kirkpatrick and Agosta

Capacity audiences attended commencement exercises held at both the Kirkpatrick and Agosta high schools last night. Rev. Herbert Weckmueller, pastor of the First Reformed Church of this city, delivered the commencement address to the class of six who graduated from the Agosta school and Prof. Alden Huchison, of Wilmington, was the speaker at the Kirkpatrick commencement.

Guy Morse Bingham, of Wilmington, will be the speaker at the graduation of a class of 33 at the Green Camp high school, Thursday night.

Daily Proverb—"The palm is not gained without the dust of labor."

The French government is said to be delighted over the oversubscription of its domestic loan. No wonder! The novelty of the thing alone would be bound to please Paris.

Why need Americans go to London for atmosphere when four passenger liners are crippled in collisions and twenty-five more are held up by a fog which blankets New York harbor for forty hours?

We will not go all the distance with Owen D. Young, who says that "facts are our scarcest raw materials," but there's no getting away from the proposition that some of our facts developed of late have been mighty raw.

The campaign expenditures of a number of distinguished gentlemen who profess to believe they have a chance at the presidency rather go to show that they lack the courage of their alleged convictions.

A Chicago woman, whose husband has been sending her flowers ever since their bethrothal, has sued him for divorce and asks that he be enjoined from annoying her with his floral offerings. It's simply impossible to please some of them.

Reporting on organized crime after an exhaustive survey, the Illinois Association of Criminal Justice asserts that vice has had its grip upon Chicago for twenty years. Huh! We could have told the world that off-hand!

A farmer residing near Baraboo, Wisconsin, stuck his head into a barrel full of water and held it there until he drowned. What wouldn't be possible to a man with a determination like that, were it properly applied?

The vetoing of the Muscle Shoals and farm relief bills is regarded in Washington as certain. As the White House spokesman is no longer on the job, we just about have to assume that somebody has been making signs.

We refuse to scare over the prediction of a French writer that women will be wearing trousers, thirty years hence, and we men folks be going about in skirts. Unless the styles change radically, it'll never be known that we're wearing 'em.

A headline in a Chicago paper tells us that a citizen of New Orleans was knocked out of a small boat by a bolt of lightning "and drowned." Anyway, as his body hasn't been recovered it's pretty safe to assume that he is dead.

The tax reduction bill providing for a cut of $205,000,000 has passed the senate and now goes to conference, the house having voted a slash of $290,000,000. Why bother about a trifling little difference like that in this day and age when congress is voting to blow in billions; apparently in the belief that money grows on trees?

For Private Ownership.

No matter what may be the course followed by President Coolidge in connection with the Jones merchant marine bill, whether he vetoes it, signs it or permits it to become a law without his signature, the vote on the conference report on the bill gives us a rather good insight into the feeling of the present congress regarding a government-owned merchant marine.

In the original form in which the bill passed the senate, it could pass for nothing other than a measure for government ownership and operation. The provision which prevented the sale of any of the government's merchant vessels without the unanimous vote of the Shipping board could be taken to mean nothing else. The provision made for a ship replacement program pointed the same way. However, when the bill went into conference, it was found to have been decidedly changed by the house, which added a mail subvention, under which it is estimated that about $7,500,000 will be paid annually to American shipping companies in connection with contracts for carrying the mails, increased from $125,000,000 to $250,000,000 the amount of government money the board could loan at a low rate of interest up to three-fourths the value of a ship, and made provision for the sale of the ships of our merchant marine on the favorable vote of five of the seven members of the shipping board.

No matter, as we said, what may be the course of the president; no matter what the feeling of congress may be in regard to government ownership and operation in other lines, the vote on the conference report on the Jones bill makes plain that congress does not favor a government-owned-and-operated merchant marine. More than that, it shows that congress is not only willing to go a long way to turn our present merchant marine over the private ownership and operation, but is also willing to render financial assistance on decidedly liberal terms for its upbuilding and development under such ownership and operation to a point where it will be commensurate with our needs and our importance as a world power.

Uniforming of Dry Officers.

Mrs. Florence Kahn, member of congress from California, makes the suggestion that prohibition-enforcement officers be uniformed. We do not mean to be taken as holding that the idea is original with her, for it is not. The plan of uniforming officers engaged as highway guards was advocated in these columns several years ago, and we recall having seen editorial suggestions that all dry-enforcement officers be uniformed, both before and since. But we do not recall ever before having come upon the championing of any such plan by a member of congress, and surely Mrs. Kahn is the first woman member of congress to commit herself to such a plan.

The suggestion of the California congresswoman comes, of course, as the result of the shooting of Jacob Hanson, near Niagara Falls, New York, who happened to be driving a sedan of a well-known make, which is the style of car frequently used by rum-runners in the vicinity of Niagara Falls, according to the statement of dry law officers. Hanson, still in a hospital, says he took the officers for highwaymen, that he stepped on the gas when they commanded him to halt, and the shooting followed, three or four shots being fired.

As Mrs. Kahn states, "the natural tendency of a motorist who is told to halt at night is 'to step on the gas.' If the prohibition agents were in uniform and displayed it, there would be fewer tragic results."

We take it that Mrs. Kahn means there would be fewer tragic results to motorists and civilians generally, and she is right about that, but we are of the opinion that the uniforming of dry-law officers would not only result beneficially to inoffensive civilians, but also afford some degree of protection to the officers as well. Experience has demonstrated that all the rum-runners are not of the type of criminal that feels it a duty to kill an officer every time opportunity presents. There are a lot of people who yet have respect for a uniform, and not all of them are law-abiding.

We can see how it might prove a handicap to uniform all dry-law officers, especially those who are employed in ferreting out violations, but certainly uniforming those who are employed in holding up and searching vehicles for liquor would in no way lessen their efficiency, and it would, in large degree, remove the apprehension of those using the highway that they were about to be held up by highwaymen.

Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri; Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, and Senator George Norris, of Nebraska, are making Secretary Hoover a target for various charges which have been discredited. Can it be that they have entered into a conspiracy to nominate and elect him?

George Bernard Shaw has stated that he would come to the United States and direct the production of a film for $100,000. But what's the use? We have a lot of people over here who probably could direct it just as badly for half the money.

Pen and Ink Wrong.

The judge of the orphans' court of Summerville, New Jersey, has refused to recognize the pleas of 103 Texans by the name of Duke who claimed shares in a $2,000,000 trust fund provided for in the will of the late tobacco multimillionaire, James B. Duke, for lineal descendants of his aunts and uncles. It was contended by the Texans that they were related to Rev. Thomas B. Duke, who, they set out, was a brother of the tobacco magnate's father.

A collection of old Bibles and records of the church in which the Rev. Mr. Duke worshipped were introduced by the claimants, and their cause looked fairly good for a time, but the executors of the estate produced a handwriting expert from Hoboken, who testified that the ink used on the records in question had been placed thereon in the last few years and had been applied with a steel pen, while the notations concerning which no question was raised, had been made with a quill.

In a word, the ink used showed properties which were not used in ink at the time the records were purported to have been made and it did not act on the paper of the Bibles as did the older ink and marks were made on the paper which could not possibly have been made with a quill.

We assume that it will be permissible to remark that it takes genius to escape the deductions possible as a result of scientific research and study.

"Art, like morality," says G. K. Chesterton, "consists in drawing the line somewhat." Following the line of present-day morality may explain what's the matter with contemporary art.

"Frederick Names Four Bridges for Great Americans," reads a headline in a Washington paper, the four named in the text under the headline being Stonewall Jackson, Barbara Fritchie, Francis Scott Key and General Lafayette. The best of them pull 'em at times.

Frederick Macquesten says that when he hears the word "coordination" he knows the public is going to suffer. Uh-huh! That means that some kind of an efficiency expert is in the vicinity.

The vice president of a big insurance company says that unemployment insurance, so popular in Europe, will come next in the United States. We know a lot of people who could claim benefits under unemployment insurance, even when they think they're working.

That Wisconsin woman who plans to give up a prosperous advertising business so that she can take things easy and raise roses has another guess coming if the climate up there is anything like what we have down here.

The quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which recently protested further appropriations by congress for extending the naval cruiser building program beyond next year, has voiced strong opposition to compulsory military training in colleges and universities and to all military training in high schools. The propaganda of the pacificists apperently is bearing fruit.

BUT IT REALLY PAYS TO BE CAUTIOUS.

Weaning the Infant.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Every week or so some young mother writes to ask advice about weaning her baby. She wants to know how to decide when it is time to take the infant off the breast and give it the bottle.

The best evidence of this necessity is found, not in the time of year, but in the baby himself. If he is prospering and the mother is well, the breast feeding may continue. If all goes well it should be continued.

A normal, healthy infant gains from six ounces to a half pound in weight every week for the first year. Later, the gain is not so great. It may not exceed from three ounces to six ounces every week. So long as as the child makes consistent gain, in about this ratio, there is no occasion for worry. All is well.

A healthy child sleeps most of the time. He is apt to fall asleep during his feeding, or immediately afterward. During the first half year of life he will be likely to sleep twenty hours every day. That is good for him.

If the feeding is ample and of good quality, the bowels act regularly. There will be no gas formation and no distress. Vomiting and severe crying are absent.

I wouldn't give a cent for a baby that never cried. There is something wrong with a vocally silent infant, just as there is with one that cries most of the time. The average expectation of crying in a healthy child is the sum total of an hour a day.

I have told you how to tell whether or not the infant is prospering. The reverse of the conditions I have mentioned will warn you that the child is not doing well. Then, of course, bottle feeding must be considered.

Fretfulness, crying, moaning and vocal protests for hours at a time are signs of trouble. Whining and crying during nursing are pretty sure signs of the lack of a nourishing supply of milk.

Vomiting, infrequent or over-frequent stools, and general appearance of ill-health are other evidences of the need of better feeding. These should not be overlooked.

Perhaps the best reason for taking the child off the breast and placing him on the bottle, is loss of weight, or persistent failure to gain weight.

Just as gain in weight and strength are signs of well being, so the reverse is a sure reason for suspecting that the quality or quantity of the food may not be right. When the baby fails to progress physically it is time for bottle feeding.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

H.G.H. Q—What will help excessive perspiration—would an electric vibrator for massaging the feet be helpful?

A—Where perspiration is excessive the trouble can usually be traced to nerve disturbance. I doubt the vibrator would be of any great value. Try to get at the underlying cause of the condition. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Editorial Opinion.

STILL AT IT.

At a meeting held in Cassel, Germany, Communist delegates from sixteen countries, including the United States, discussed ways and means to extend Communistic activities in the so-called capitalist armies and navies. An individual named Rykoff, said to be a nephew of Maxim Litvinoff, assistant Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, attended as an emissary of the executive of the Moscow Red International.

At Rykoff's demand, the delegates reported on the state of revolutionary preparedness in their respective countries, particularly as regards the military forces. "Jack Wilson," one of the American agents present, had next to no cheerful information to give concerning the United States army, but in the navy progress had been made. While last year the Communists had only three "cells" among the navy personnel, today they have no fewer than ten.

One of the British delegates said there were thirteen "cells" in the British navy, with two to be added soon. As for the French army, fourteen "cells" were reported, with the assurance that the Red flag could be hoisted on at least ten French warships, if a crisis arose.

Rykoff was by no means satisfied. Here is Moscow trying its hardest to turn the capitalistic world topsy-turvy, while its trusted servants are asleep on their jobs. What is the good of a few scattered "cells" in the navies when the armies remain unimpregnated with the revolutionary germ? Rykoff raged and scolded. He told the delgates that Moscow expects the latter months of 1928 and the early months of 1929 to be a period of mutinies and seditions, possibly of great international conflicts. But the headquarters of the Red International can not bring about the desired confusion single-handed.

Owing to vigilance by German authorities, the Cassel meeting is much less of a secret than its organizers had intended it to be. The governments concerned can not do less than take warning. Moscow continues to plot world-wide subversion with maniacal persistence. Its fury is largely pathological, but it is none the less dangerous on that account.—Detroit Free Press.

PRISONERS ON PAROLE, BEWARE.

Men and women, on parole from state prisons, who commit felonies and receive new sentences in Ohio courts, must be returned to prison under the first sentence and serve the maximum term before they can begin the second sentence. That is what the state law provides, according to a ruling given by Attorney General Edward C. Turner. There is no way provided by which the first sentence can be shortened or ended, save by a pardon from the governor, and the chance of securing that for a prisoner who would not observe the law when on parole and trusted by the state may not be considered good.

Here is an instance where the existing law is much stronger than had been known in the past, strong enough to attract the attention of men and women on parole and give them a new and powerful reason for observing right conduct. If its provisions are disregarded, then the foolish individual must carry the entire burden. The state had provided a minimum sentence, with possible parole, and, if both offering are disregarded, then the prisoner must pay the price.

Ohio has been using the parole law for many years, has had about the same experiences other states have had, some astonishing failures, and many prisoners who did play square with the state and stay inside the law. No state can be expected to shower favors on and provide opportunities to prisoners, if the first consideration shown is thrown aside. The prisoner must do his part or take the consequences of his folly. That ruling by Attorney General Turner means some prisoners in Ohio institutions are going to remain there for many years. They did not show themselves worthy of state confidence. They threw away a great opportunity.—Ohio State Journal.

Words, Words, Words.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Can you have thoughts without language? Some say you can not. Try thinking without allowing words to occur in your mind corresponding to your thoughts. See whether you can do it. Interrogate yourself as to whether you could think at all if you had no language at all. The cry of the new born baby is its whole language; does it also give the measure of the baby's whole range of thought?

Carl Schurz, who was a master of speech, says, in his "Memoirs:"

"Since becoming known as a speaker and writer in English as well as in German I have often been asked by persons interested in linguistic studies or in psychological problems, whether while I was speaking or writing I was thinking in English or in German; and whether I was constantly translating from one language into the other. The answer was that when speaking or writing in English I was thinking in English, and when speaking or writing in German I was thinking in German, and when my mind followed a train of thought which did not require immediate expression in words I was unconscious of what language I was thinking in."

The last sentence is ambiguous, since it implies that he was thinking in some language, though he did not know what it was. Was it, then, really any language at all? If there were no words in the mind, the thinking was independent of expression. Certainly we hear every day the statement: "I am unable to express my thought in words," and the universality of the experience behind that statement may be a proof that the mind really can think without any aid from language.

On the other hand, some may object that, in such cases, what is in the mind is only something suggested by mental images of words, the difficulty of expression arising from defective knowledge of the language. Anyhow it is certain that words have a lure and a fascination of their own over the mind of the writer or speaker. Not infrequently the occurrence of an unexpected word to the memory gives a new turn to a sentence, or even a changed structure to the development of an idea. This occasionally lead a vivid orator to disaster. He is suddenly switched off the line by a misplaced word, and then the driving throng of its associates let in by the intruder fills his mouth with things that he did not intend to say and ought not to have said. Afterward he may deny that he said them. To many a politician's epitaph might be added: "Killed by a seductive word."

If poets told the full truth about their inspiration they would admit that often a verse is shaped not by the thought but by a word that will rhyme or will fit into the meter, thereby altering the thought itself.

No better illustration of the power of words in themselves could be given than a further quotation from Mr. Schurz, in which he describes his greatest speech—three hours long—given in the Cooper Institute during the Lincoln campaign. Note particularly the closing sentence, which I have capitalized.

"In later years I have now and then taken up the volume containing the speech to reread certain of its liveliest passages, and then to call up once more the youthful days when my combative temperament enjoyed to the full the 'gaudium certaminis,' when the imagination ran riot, and when THE MUSIC OF LANGUAGE SEEMED TO TINKLE ALL AROUND IN THE AIR."

Whether words are our masters or our servants, what would the world be without them? Hitherto books have furnished our only connection with past masterpieces of language, but henceforth with phonographic records the voices of the past, the spoken words, will live also, and who can guess the possible influence over coming civilizations?—Copyright, 1927, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, May 23—The chief reason for the night club debacle—and it still debacles—was not due entirely to sneering at suckers who pay $1.50 for a six-cent bottle of ginger-ale and a two-dollar fee for the privilege of drinking it. The big blow was the private home bar.

Most well-regulated establishments in New York now have their own bars, and "playing saloon" is a favored indoor pastime. Thus more or less hectic parties have been transferred to privacy from those public haunts where derbied gents were likely to pounce in swinging raiding axes.

Real old-fashioned bars are acquiring the commercial value of rare paintings, and two factories in Jersey are devoted entirely to turning out new ones of all sizes. Some are tiny affairs so mechanically contrived that they disappear at the push of a gadjet.

In one Park avenue drawing-room, the occupier can brush aside a floor rug, touch a button, and a section of the floor slides back to reveal a circular stairway leading to an elegantly-equipped bar. Another bar is in an apartment-house tower.

It can only be reached by a private elevator. The lift is unleased by the correct manipulation of a combination lock, such as those on safes. Entrance to still other whoopsie-daisies may be through what looks like an innocent bookcase section, but which is a cute sliding door.

Many of the bars attempt to ape the jovial rowdiness of the swing-door saloon. There are frosted mirrors, cruets of spice, orange peel and other halitosis destroyers, cupidors with yawning necks, sawdust on the floor, and nude pictures on the wall.

The most colorful bar is reported to be in the mansion of Peggy Joyce, the gem collector. It is so picturesquely equipped, the report says, that even bar-tenders with ronched locks, bicycle handlebar mustachios and huge sparkling scarf studs are on duty. The illusion ends abruptly, I am told, for Miss Joyce serves only soft drinks.

There is a mild cigaret manufactured in Boston, especially favored by New England ladies who smoke. A Boston lady tells of stepping into a drug store on Sixth avenue to inquire for a package.

"Certainly," replied the clerk, and she was piloted into the rear through a door into a well-equipped bar. Recovering from her bewilderment, she explained she was seeking cigarets, and not a drink. Then it developed the secret pass word to the bar was the same as the name of the cigarets.

I just turned to the "Help Wanted" columns of a morning newspaper, after reading of a big ball held by the Bartenders' union. There were a string of ads, of which the following is typical:

Wanted—Experienced drink mixer. One who has had experience dating back to ten or twelve years ago preferred. Private family.

We who squeezed out a salty tear for the plight of the old-time barkeeper might have saved it for another Helen Morgan night club raid or something. The old-time barkeep can find a job in a speakeasy any time, and double, and sometimes triple his former salary. In addition his freedom in short changing is greater. The hush-hut patrons are usually too pie-eyed to squawk. And few would go to court to press a gypping charge.

* * *

But the silliest of all the drink-mixing doodads comes from London. It is a silk hat with a crown completely equipped with tiny flasks to hold the ingredients of a cocktail, as well as a diminutive shaker. Now I ask you!

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Senatorial wrath is often roused on protests too slight. The ability to be rouse to anger in a hurry and start an investigation over night appears to be necessary equipment for the average member of the United States senate. Now and then, however, senatorial wrath strikes a responsive chord and we all take the pitch. It was pleasant enough the other day to find senators in committee expressing their righteous indignation before some representative book publishers on the subject of the high prices of useless books. An outspoken Tennessee senator exclaims that at Christmas time he has to pay two dollars for a book that isn't worth "two bits." The fact is that many or most of the books that the thinking public really wants cost $3.50 or $5.00. And now and then—or oftener—the bolder publishers spring a two-volume biography at $10 for the set.

Happily there is now a developing movement among certain publishers to publish good books at a cheaper price. They should have every encouragement. Book prices for many years have been fatally high.

There is much conversation about bettering the world. There is much loose talk about movements to cure or to elevate or to change in some fashion or other. Now and then there is a movement based on the proper mixture of humanitarianism and common sense, backed by a scientific knowledge, which demands and deserves the attention of all. The dearest wish of the late General Leonard Wood was to eliminate leprosy from the Philippine islands. A $2,000,000 fund as a memorial to General Wood, to be devoted to the cure and final elimination of leprosy, is now being raised. One thousand persons representing the foremost social and financial interests of Chicago, sat at luncheon the other day and heard the story of this great effort. In time we shall all hear it and we should give heed.

From time to time it has been pleasant to write in these columns the story of a man who has had the great-heartedness and the capacity and the courage to translate some splendid vision into practical reality. A little while ago Charles Nash, maker of motor cars in Kenosha, Wisconsin, gratified and electrified his appreciative townsmen by offering $400,000 for a new Y. M. C. A. building in that small city, if his fellow-townsmen would raise a similar amount. Four hundred thousand dollars is a magnificent gift, especially in a city no larger than Kenosha. Best of all is the appreciation on the part of Nash of the supreme fact that a movement which deals exclusively with the problem of building character—through mind, body, and spirit—into young men and boys is the world's greatest work.

Anniversary Program

The golden anniversary of Lieut. Col. John Philip Sousa, former conductor of the United States Marine Band, will be commemorated in a program by the band over the blue network Thursday night at 6 o'clock.

The program will consist largely of numbers composed by Commander Sousa during the time he conducted the famous band. Starting his musical career as a violin soloist at the age of 11, he became first violinist in Offenbach's orchestra in 1876.

As conductor of the Marine Band, Sousa served during the terms of Presidents Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland and Harrison. He has appeared in every exposition of note, both in Europe and America, since the Chicago World's Fair in 1893.

A half hour of heart throbs—to musical accompaniment—may be enjoyed by those who turn to this week's offering of the Hoover Sentinels on red network stations Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Orchestra Program

The sentimental numbers by the orchestra will provide an adequate background for the Hoover Honeymooners, who will be heard in "We'll Have A Kingdom", from Friml's Wild Rose", and "All Alone Monday", from "The Ramblers." The program will close with "Thinking of You", from the "Five O'Clock Girl", played by the orchestra.

A gala concert as a Victor Herbert Memorial, celebrating the birth of America's favorite composer, will be staged in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York City, and broadcast to red network listeners Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

The concert, which will be one hour in duration, is given under the auspices of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. It will bring before the microphone famous artists who once played in the original cast of Victor Herbert productions.

Master wrks of the American composer will be played by a concert orchestra under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret.

SIX GRADE SCHOOLS ENTERED IN CONTEST

Awards Made at Close of Two-Day Exhibit Held at Mt. Gilead

Mt. Gilead, May 23—A grade school contest in which the different grades competed for honors and cups, was held Monday and Tuesday. In this contest, the first ever held here, the handiwork of the pupils of the various grades was entered. Booklets were made by the pupils on a wide variety of subjects and these were the principal display. It was estimated by Mrs. Mabel Porter Liggett, principal who originated the contest here, that 2,880 booklets had been made during the year by the pupils of the six grades.

The grades were judged by W. A. Stage, retiring county superintendent, C. B. Rayburn, superintendent of Marion County, and H. O. Hanna, former superintendent of Hardin County, and superintendent here for the next term.

First prize, a loving cup, was awarded Mrs. Chester Gallegher, teacher of the third grade, and second prize was awarded Mrs. Mabel Liggett, teacher of a part of second and third grades combined.

Approximately 650 persons visited at the building Monday night and yesterday.

The teachers competing in the contest were: Bessie Beckley, Thelma Carle, Mabel Porter Liggett Mrs. Chester Gallegher, Edith Gordon, Aubrey Jenkins, Mary Bright, Sara Minear.

BROTHERHOODS UNIT

Organizations of Galion Effect Permanent Organization at Meet

Galion, May 23—Church brotherhoods of the city have united into one permanent organization following an enthusiastic meeting which was held at the First Methodist Church. It has long been the desire of leaders of the various groups to unite and the success with which the suggested plan was met, evidences a cooperation and interest. The meeting was opened with a song service which was led by R R. Ehrhart. C. M. Stover used "Building" as his topic and Hugh Diamond entertained with an address and song group. R. R. Ehrhart was elected president of the united brotherhoods with Fred Wilson, vice president, C. M. Stover, secretary and Henry Greb, treasurer.

MISS NELL MAE SAMPSON, S. Prospect-st, whose approaching wedding was announced at a bridge party Saturday night, was complimented with a bridge party and miscellaneous shower last night by Mrs. Dwight Mahaffey, of Morral. Donald and Helen Louise Mahaffey, children of the hostess, dressed as a bride and bridegroom, marched down the stairs to the music of Lohengrin's Wedding March, and presented the gifts to Miss Sampson from a box, cleverly decorated in pink and green, colors chosen by the bride. A shower of lilies of the valley was suspended from the side of the box.

Spring flowers in baskets centered the tables for the lunch which was served. Mrs. Harold Schultz and Miss Sampson won first and second honors at bridge, for which three tables were arranged. Mrs. F. C. Sampson, mother of the bride-elect and Miss Sampson were also guests of Mrs. Mahaffey at a 6 o'clock dinner earlier in the evening. Mrs. Sampson was an out-of-town guest at the party.

This was the first of a number of parties which have been planned for Miss Sampson.

By MURRAY POWERS

AMBITION REALIZED

THIS being circus day why isn't it right and proper to talk about circuses?

The conductor of this effusion met, the other day, a man who realized his ambition to "join a circus." There are scores of us who grow up with a hankering to run away and "join up." But, the most of us, without the courage of our convictions, grow up and drift into other occupations and leave the yearning unsatisfied.

The aforesaid chap who realized his ambition was a newspaper man for years. He had the "circus bug." And, while he rambled into newspaperdom and pounded drama, mystery and personals out of a typewriter day in and day out in various parts of the country the old yearning to join the circus, to smell the odorous mangerie, eat in the cook house, ride the circus trains, breathe the dust on the walk from the train to the lot, etc., and so forth, kept pricking his spirit.

So he cast aside his journalistic mantle, substituted a Corona for an L. C. Smith, put both shirts and the pair of socks in his bag and said good-bye to his scowling city editor. And he joined the circus.

But there's the rub.

"How do you like it?" said we. And he said, "It gets darned lonesome. Otherwise O K."

You see, the trouble is, he joined the circus, all right, but all of the circus he has seen was at the opening stand when he wandered around and got some atmosphere. The rest of the time he is a week ahead of the circus, placing publicity matter about his caravan with the newspapers. All the circus he sees is on the billboards and the name of the controlling company on his pay checks.

OH, THESE COMICS

NEWSPAPER comic strips are the bane of the editor's life. Every reader has his pet strip and the folks who take a couple of daily papers always have a suggestion to make on the matter of a new comic.

"Why don't you get 'Gasoline Alley'," we'll be asked. "Why not 'Mutt and Jeff'?" "Or There isn't anything like 'Little Orphan Annie.'" And, none of the suggestions is alike.

Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade paper, this week reveals that 11 papers published in Greater New York are using 70 daily comic strips. It adds that "Kid" comics are growing up, selections of a number of editors displaying a preference for strips with characters apparently ranging in ages from 16 to 50, rather than the baby and youngster heroes and heroines with which the feature began in the "Yellow Kid" and "Buster Brown" days of 25 years ago.

Of the 70 daily comics published by the New York papers only 20 are devoted to the younger set.

Thus a feature that was originally built for children has taken such a hold on adult life that it is gradually being monopolized by the older generations. There seems to be no class of newspaper feature that wields such a power with the reading public. Thousands of letters to the editor have been written over sequences of comics. Money has been gambled on the outcome of comic strip races and fights. Political campaigns in some instances have been dominated by cartoon figures rather than flesh-and-blood characters.

The most recent instance of the power of the comic strip is revealed in the "Just Kids Safety Club," which grew out of an accident to one of the principal characters. Clubs have sprung up all over the country and here in Marion there are some 25000 members with applications daily coming in.

DANGER

Your tongue is the best barometer of your physical condition. Look at it every morning before breakfast. If it is coated with white, yellow or brown coloring, and does not have its clean red appearance you are constipated and not well.

Heed Its Warning

Constipation causes more ailments than all other diseases, and is the result of not having a daily bowel movement. Sick-headache, indigestion, biliousness and sallow complexion follow. Ask your druggist for a 25c red paper package of CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS "Safe Laxative". Take a dose to-night and continue once pill after each meal. Don't stop—until your tongue is clean. You will be surprised at the tonic effect this doctor's formula will have on you.

Department Buyers for 112 Great Stores

insist on Lux for their OWN things

The greatest group of experts ever consulted

92% of the Department Store Buyers interviewed in 112 of the most important stores in America insist on Lux for their own precious things!

Imagine what this means!

These women are the buyers of women's and children's dresses, blouses, underthings, hosiery, gloves, for the great stores which do three-fourths of all the department store business in the United States.

Experts in Clothes

They are paid huge salaries because of their sure knowledge of fabrics and styles.

For the first time, hundreds of these experts in big cities from Boston to Los Angeles have given their opinion about the best way to cleanse today's clothes and modern, sheer fabrics.

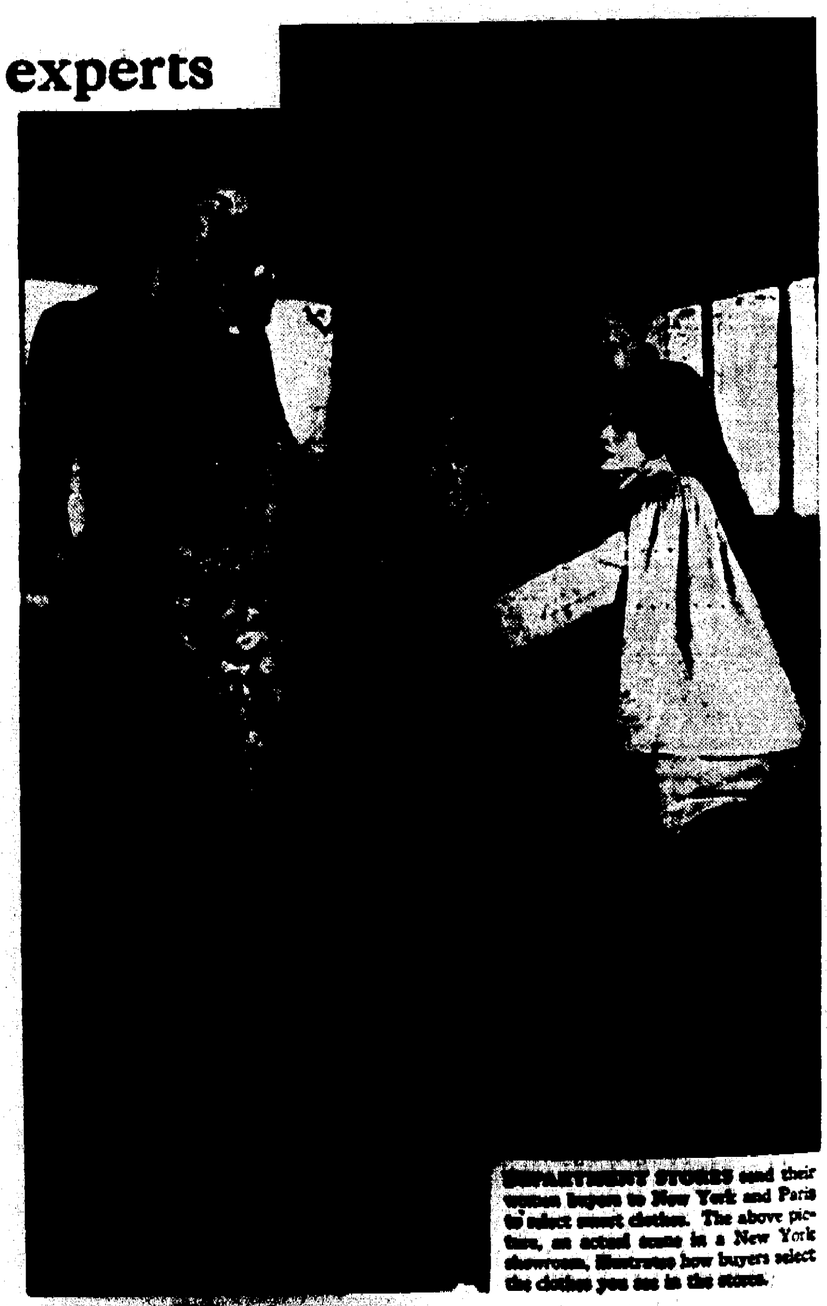
Interviewed in their own departments of leading stores in 26 cities, they told just how their own nice things are taken care of.

And their verdict was well-nigh unanimous!

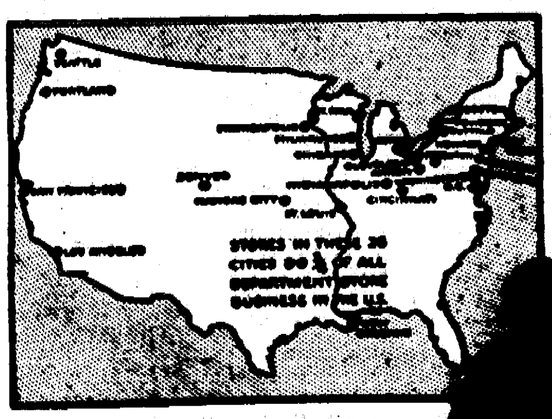
92% of these experts insist on Lux!

Knowing clothes and fabrics, and the importance of the right method of cleaning, these experts will take no chances!

Like women everywhere, the women who buy for America's great stores—buy the charming clothes that the women of America wear—overwhelmingly insist upon safe cleansing with Lux!



DEPARTMENT STORES send their women buyers to New York and Paris to select smart clothes. The above picture, an actual scene in a New York showroom, illustrates how buyers select the clothes you see in the stores.



ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES, from coast to coast, successful women buyers, heads of their own departments in the big stores of the 26 cities shown above, told frankly how they cared for their own things. For sheer stockings, delicate underthings, sweaters, charming frocks, gloves, 92% of these clothes experts—91 out of every 100 interviewed—insist on Lux!

¶ Like the department store buyers, women everywhere trust their nice things to LUX. For women have found, as the great motion picture studios—the New York musical shows—have proved by test, that washing with Lux doubles the life of fabrics! ¶ Pure Lux has none of the harmful alkali found in many soaps, whether flakes, chips or cakes—nothing to weaken delicate fibres, fade nice colors.

CHAPTER 56

SISKIYOU is a law-abiding county. Its [illegible] mountain valleys and [illegible] are the habitat of men whose characters have been [illegible] from the Anglo-Saxon code of [illegible] and the ancient code still [illegible]. No immigrant scum of eastern Europe has come [illegible] the body politics, with its [illegible] and greed, its defiance [illegible] order, its vendettas, and [illegible] of late years, have been [illegible] responsible for what the newspapers [illegible] pleased to call our crime [illegible].

The superior judge of Siskiyou is not [illegible] man; his calendar is [illegible] with cases clamoring to be [illegible]; there is none of the law's delay in more crowded communities; our judicial system; [illegible] Kirby, the district attorney, had in his mind that the man who had taken the life of his child at the [illegible] his own liberty and facial [illegible] and suffering should now [illegible] justice so long denied him.

[illegible] proceeding to set in motion the machinery that would initiate the necessary result, he had assured himself that the statute of limitations would not operate to free Jethroe from the consequences of his duplicity, and with the indictment secured he moved swiftly into action.

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock Bentley brought Jethroe into court to plead to the indictment against him. The latter's attorney, one James P. Rigdon, had already arrived in town to represent his client, and when Jethroe, as a matter of course, pleaded not guilty, Judge Kenly set the date of his trial two weeks from that date, denying Rigdon's plea for 30 days in which to prepare his case.

"Under ordinary circumstances I would grant your request, Mr. Rigdon," the court assured the latter, "but this is no ordinary case, nor does the defense of your client appear to me to present aspects necessitating that length of time to prepare. A citizen of this county is now reposing in the state penitentiary, partly upon the strength of testimony given by this defendant in his trial; and the indictment charges that this testimony was false in every particular and that the defendant knew it was false.

"Had that testimony not been given at the trial of Robert Lee Mason, it is reasonable to presume that a doubt as to Mason's guilt might have arisen in the minds of the jury that convicted him, and that such doubt might have reacted to the benefit of Mason.

"In trying this case on the indictment returned against your client, this court is quite as much interested in proving your client's testimony to have been perjured as it is in determining the guilt or innocence of your client, for it is the opinion of the court that upon the outcome of this trial will depend to a very great extent the liberty and happiness of the man Mason.

"The case presents no unusual or difficult angles. Two weeks is ample time for you to prepare an attack against the validity of this indictment and consult with your client. What is required in this particular case is speed and for that reason, Mr. Rigdon, I expect you to be speedy and prepared to go to trial two weeks from today. Motion denied."

Rigdon then made a motion to have his client admitted to bail, and Judge Kenly set the bail at $25,000 cash, which was immediately furnished. Ten minutes later Jethroe walked out of the district attorney's office with his lawyer, a free man for two weeks.

Bentley walked into Jim Kirby's office the moment Jethroe and his attorney came out. "See here, Jim," he announced, "I want to remind you that man Jethroe ain't no mean opponent. He's the sort of man who pits his bankroll against the law and wins oftener than men like us care to see happen. We're going to give that skunk a fair trial, but let's make certain he gets it.

"Of course it's up to me to dig up a jury and I'll see to it the jury panel comes from a part of the county where nobody ever heard of Henry Jethroe, the Hercules Hydraulic Mining Company, or Bob Mason. No town juries or professional jurymen go. Understand? Some of them sell out too cheap.

"And, remember, we got to put that hardware clerk, Edward Binney, under surveillance. Jethroe can fight the evidence in that record book the hardware people keep, even if we have the books in our possession, provided he gets Binney out of the way. Jethroe will then swear his signature is a forgery, and unless Binney is on hand to swear, regardless of the written record, that Jethroe is the man he sold that pistol to and that he knows Jethroe well and has for years, we're liable to git a hung jury.

"This Binney is only a clerk and if Jethroe dangles $10,000 under his nose and gives him a ticket to Europe, where are we at? That's the only chance to win Jethroe has, and he's smart enough to know it. He can afford to pay the price and he'll do it. The job would be cheap for him at a hundred thousand."

"I'll have a subpoena served on Binney immediately."

"That won't keep Binney from changin' his mind once he's on the witness stand. You got an emergency expense fund you don't have to account for, haven't you, Jim?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, let me have $300 and I'll send a smart man down to San Francisco to look after Binney and see that nobody tampers with him."

"Who'll you send?"

Bentley smiled like a mischievous boy. "How would that ex-ranger, Garland, do?" he queried.

"The very man," Jim Kirby agreed, and handed over the money.

That night Garland went to San Francisco and served Edward Binney next day with a subpoena as a witness. And when he had served him at his place of employment he lingered long enough to acquaint the clerk with the most minute details of Bob Mason's case. Having, as he believed, enlisted Binney's sympathies and earnest co-operation, he next shifted the conversation to firearms. He examined a number of shotguns, sporting rifles, and fishing tackle; he expatiated upon the delights of a camping trip in the mountain fastness of Siskiyou, of deer and bear and fish, until Binney's face glowed ax, in his mind's eye, he wandered through the wilderness with Anthony Garland. Presently Garland suggested such a trip, with Binney as his guest.

"Can't very well get away, Binney protested, "although I'm due for a vacation."

"Whisper in the boss's ear," Garland suggested. "You have an excellent excuse. You've been subpoenaed as a witness in this case, and he will have to let you go in two weeks. Suggest to him that you have a fine opportunity to investigate some virgin hunting and fishing territory while you are away, and without cost to you.

"Such information as you will acquire on this trip is always an asset to a firm that handles sporting-goods—and since you sell them you are the man who should be in position to supply the firm's customers with information touching on good places to hunt and fish. Customers are always asking at sporting-goods stores for such information, are they not?"

"We maintain a bureau for dispensing that information," Binney admitted; and under the strong spell of temptation so skilfully woven by the adroit Garland, he took the matter up with his employer at once, with the result that he went north to Siskiyou with Garland that night.

Responding to a telegram sent him that same afternoon, Sheriff Bentley met them at the train with two saddle-horses and a pair of pack-mules, laden with blankets, provisions and other necessary equipment.

"We have less than two weeks to enjoy ourselves, Mr. Binney," Garland informed the delighted clerk, "so I wired ahead to have everything ready. I hate delays."

That night, while an emissary of Henry Jethroe was questioning Binney's wife as to his whereabouts, Garland and his protege slept in the timber far down on the Klamath River while Sheriff Bentley, as pleased as Punch, celebrated this master-stroke by taking his missus and the girls to a motion-picture show.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

WEDNESDAY. I saw a squirrel on our back fence this morning, and when Jubilee got after it, it ran up on the top of the barn and fussed at him. So when I had fed my face, I got an old cigar box my father kept nails in and made a box trap to catch the squirrel in, and baited it with a hickory nut I had bored a hole through and fastened to the trigger with a wire. When I hurried home from school to take the prisoner out of the trap and make a cage for him he had got caught in the trap and when he found he was caught he got mad and chewed the cigar box all to pieces and scattered it around and took the nut off the wire by cracking it and had went. I bet he thinks I am an easy mark.

Today was a nice day and all the boys were playing ball or top or marbles. Me and Peanuts was playing catch in the yard whilst waiting for the bell to ring and Mush's wife was stomped over by the basement door where she has got a pan full of young larkspur which she is going to set out in the back garden as soon as school is out for vacation, and the ball slipped and surprised her so sudden that she bumped her head against the wall and came up with her hat over one eye. She looked surprised when she didn't see anyone near her, and the ball had rolled around the corner, and just then the bell rang and we all skuddooed for the front steps. I bet she thinks it was her imagination, but if she finds a black and blue spot she will think it wasn't. When we went down at recess the ball was gone, but it wasn't my ball.

After we had went to my house and found out what the squirrel had done to my trap we went out to the pasture and the grass is coming up so good out there that my father says I can begin taking the cows out as soon as vacation starts. I wish it was so that I had to take the cows out while it was schooldays, and then didn't have to take them out or milk them or anything when it came vacation. I wouldn't know what to do if I had so much time on my hands.

The creek is still pretty cold and makes a fella's lips blue. The Last Rag of Tripe still shows the mark where Hanty lambasted him with the board. I happened to look up while I was in the creek and saw it when he was bent over chaw-raw-hoeing Pickles' shirt. I didn't say anything, because it wasn't my shirt, and then when he had shun out and we came out from in swimming I found that he had chawed my shirt before he did Pickles'. The dirty crook.

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

I HAD no words to answer Harry Underwood's question concerning my theory as to the long past disgraceful episode in which he and Grace Draper were figures. It was so startling an interrogation, brought such vivid—and unpleasant—memories of that first year of my marriage in which Grace Draper played so diabolical a role, that I simply stared at him helplessly, wondering if Lillian and I had been mistaken about his part in the sordid little drama.

"You don't need to answer that in words," Mr. Underwood said with a smile. "Those big eyes are answer enough. As to that, I did take the Draper away, but only because I wanted to get her away from your vicinity, and besides she needed somebody to keep her from ending everything after she tried to stab Dicky. If I'd been sure she'd have stopped with herself, I think I'd have let her try the experiment. But there wasn't any of the romance stuff, sordid or otherwise, between us. I swear it. I was sore at Lil and crazy about you, and I got to drinking hard.

"You probably know when I'm hitting the loose nose of my gears mesh. I'm a total loss. At any rate, when I got to the point where I didn't know the brake from the gas, the Draper began to get in her fine work. I never did get to the bottom of her scheme. She was more than half nutty over the idea of revenging herself upon Dicky and she was easy meat for the enemy spies that were floating around that time. And we both were broke. Gradually she got the idea into my head that if I could get Dicky bumped off, I could grab you. Luckily I came to in time. But you know the rest of it."

"Only too well," I said soberly, for the memory of that awful time and the long vigil following it when Dicky's life came so near fluttering out was still vividly with me.

"I wouldn't bring it up now after all these years only that I want you to know all that about you is outfinished. I'll never bother you any more, though I'll always think you're the sweetest thing this side the pearly gates. But I've been finding myself all these years that I've been trying to square things, and the chief thing I've discovered is that there's just one woman in the world I need and want, and that's Lil with her golden heart and her tabasco temper. I've kept away from her all this time, first because I hadn't any right to think she'd forgive me, second, because I thought for a long time she was going to take the second pair of oars in Navarin's boat. But when I heard awhile ago—never mind how—that the early-dust-love romance hadn't passed out I began to hope a bit on my own account."

I was quite sure that I knew the source of his information concerning Lillian. I remembered a conversation with Dicky in which he had said that Lillian would be much happier with Harry than she would with Robert Savarin, famous artist and idol of her youthful imagination whose archaic ideas of woman's place were stronger than his love for her. I knew too, that Dicky alone had held the secret of Harry Underwood's identity in those days just past when his friend was posing as Petrovsky, the Transvaalian revolutionist. Dicky must have kept in close touch with his old friend for years.

"So now I've come clean, Lady Fair," Mr. Underwood said, "and I want your advice on something that concerns me most nearly. Will you promise to give me your honest-to-God opinion without any regard to my feelings? I know if you make a promise like that, your 'rock-bound coast' conscience will make you keep it. And I want some straight-from-the-shoulder advice without any strings attached."

"Why don't you ask Lillian?" I faltered, for my intuition told me that his question would be a delicate one to answer.

"Because it concerns her too nearly," he returned quickly. "Come, Lady Fair, it isn't like you to shirk. Give this little boy a hand. He needs it badly."

There was something in his voice—tense—urgent—which made me say quickly:

"Very well, I promise. What is it you want to ask me?"

He waited for a long minute before answering while his eyes roved over the orchard and meadow beyond the rose garden. Then he turned back to me.

"Do you think Lillian is happy with [illegible]? Or do you think I'd better [illegible] again?"

Involuntarily my lips formed words I had no intention of uttering.

"Marion is to blame for this!" I exclaimed.

The Story of Certo

Now anyone, even without previous experience, can make the most delicious jams and jellies ever tasted—quickly, easily, and be certain of success every time! Certo makes this possible.

Before the advent of Certo, fruit jelly making in the home was a yearly adventure involving a good deal of worry and uncertainty because the principles or basic laws governing the art were not generally understood.

Today all the factors producing success or failure in jelly making are well known and may be summarized as follows. The physical characteristics of all fruit jelly are due to a jellifying substance present in the tissues of most fruits. This substance, rendered soluble by boiling, reacts with the acid of the fruit and sugar present to form the quivering, semi-solid delicacy known as fruit jelly. This change takes place only when, by adding sufficient sugar, or by long boiling, the percentage of sugar is raised to about 60%.

Without this jellifying substance in fruit, no jelly formation could take place and cooking fruit with sugar would yield only a thin syrup.

The old-fashioned uncertain way

In making jellies by the old-fashioned long-boiling process even the most experienced housekeepers find that, using the same kind of fruit in the same way, they get a jelly texture one time and a syrupy failure the next. The reason for this uncertainty is found in the fact that the jelly forming substance of fruit is constantly changing, always decreasing in quantity as the fruit ripens, so that the ripest fruit with the richest flavor is the least suitable for jelly making by the old long-boiling process.

Many delicious fruits, such as pineapple, do not contain any of this jellying substance, or contain it in such small quantities that it is impossible to make jelly from them unless some of this jellying element is added to make up this deficiency.

Very few fruits have enough of this jellying substance to jellify all the juice they contain. That is why, by the old-fashioned method, the juice has to be "boiled down" until this jellying element is concentrated enough to jell the remaining juice.

The modern sure way

After years of research this elusive jelly making substance which Nature has distributed so unequally, has been extracted from fruits in which it is abundant—concentrated and highly refined so that today housewives everywhere can secure it from grocers in convenient bottles from under the trade-mark name "Certo", which designates the product made by the Certo Corporation. If Certo is made into a sparkling jelly with sugar and water alone, the jelly is practically colorless and flavorless, which proves that the addition of Certo to the most delicately flavored fruits does not affect their color or flavor.

Better color and flavor

The "Certo Short Process" has been evolved to produce a new standard of quality in jams and jellies. It does this by shortening the boiling time to 1 or 2 minutes, thus preserving the fresh fruit color and flavor, instead of boiling them away. By the old long-boiling process half of the fruit or fruit juice was boiled away, the bright color darkened and most of the fresh fruit flavor carried off in steam.

This explains why Certo recipes call for some extra sugar—simply to fill the place that formerly was boiled away as fragrant steam. This extra sugar is not an added expense but an economy; because for every extra pound of sugar used, a proportionate increase of jam or jelly is produced, of a better quality and containing less sugar than if made by the old methods.

By the Certo method the fragrance of the fresh fruit is sealed up in the jelly jars for future enjoyment.

Jellied fruits should no longer be considered as luxuries, but as economical food staples to be used freely every day—they satisfy the natural desire for sweets and furnish them in a healthful and appetizing form, in an endless variety of flavor and color.

Your grocer has Certo. A booklet containing nearly 100 recipes for delicious jams, jellies and marmalades is under the label of each bottle. Get a bottle today.

A famous cooking expert recommends making all your jams and jellies with Certo. Note the reasons she gives below!

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, and Cooking Editor of Women's Home Companion, says of Certo:

"I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because:

It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling.

Tastes better—No flavor boiled away.

Surer—Not darkened by long boiling.

No worry—Never fails to set.

It's economical—Fifty per cent more fruit given account of fruit and no waste from failures."
